FOR NEXT GOVERNOR OF PENNSYLVANIA

ADJT. GEN. D. H. HASTINGS,

Subject to the decision of the Republican State Convention

EDITORIAL BRIEFS

A CASKET manufacturer of Amsterdam, New York, has failed for $100,000. It seems that an investment in casket making is not "a dead sure thing."

THE firm of Tanner and Dudley, pension and claim agents, promises to get plenty of business. Both members are ex-Commissioners of Pensions, and both have a wide acquaintance with the old soldiers.

THE alarming discovery has been made in Kennebec, Maine, that the Jamaica ginger dispensed there contains 90 per cent. of alcohol. After that we are prepared to hear that root beer in Maine is 4 per cent. above proof.

Company B, of this place, and the Bellefonte Band will open the skating rink this evening. All lovers of that old-time sport should go around and take a skate. Elaborate preparations have been made to insure a pleasant time.

THE Cronin trial is getting down to fine details. Already the witnesses have succeeded in transforming a white horse into a "speckled gray." Possibly by the time the case goes to the jury, unless the lawyers hurry up, the horse will be black.

THE recuperative powers of Cleveland and Tariff Reform in Pennsylvania are daily developing increasing strength. Periodical bulletins will be issued and information furnished hereafter by W. L. Scott, of Erie, and Chauncey F. Black of York.

THE Ohio Democrats will not accept the result of the election on the Lieutenant Governorship, but are making arrangements for a contest. The executive committee are moving in the matter, the Democratic candidate, Marquis, not having shown any disposition to take action. The committee would better imitate his example.

THE Republic of Brazil has been recognized by the Government of the United States, and all her representatives in Washington have presented their new credentials, which have been fully and formally accepted by our State Department. All of the officials from Brazil but one will continue to hold their places under the new order of things.

DYNAMITE, it is said, is the latest deadly weapon introduced into the feudal warfare in Kentucky. This statement may well awaken feelings of horror in the breast of every individual outside the boundaries of mountainous counties where these vendettas prevail. It is certainly the imperative duty of civil authorities of Kentucky to end these uncivilized and disgraceful battles at all hazard and any cost.

REPUBLICAN rule: Notices have been posted in all the mills of the Glascow Iron Company, near Prattstown, announcing an increase in the wages of puddlers of 25 cents per ton. The men have been getting $3.50 and will hereafter recieve $3.75. The wages of all other employes will be correspondingly increased. Three dollars and seventy-five cents is now the standard price of puddler's wages in the Schuylkill valley

THE Rev. Dr. Edward McGlynn lectured in Braddock on Thursday evening. It is said that the priest of the Catholic church in that place gave notice to his members not to attend and that there was not one Catholic in the audience. Mr. McGlynn, when spoken to afterwards as to himself said that he was just as good a Catholic as ever but he would not be dictated to pertaining matters outside the church by those higher in authority than himself in the church.

JUDGE WHITE, of Allegheny county evidently does not believe that drunkenness is an excuse for crime. In charging a jury in a murder trial on Thursday he said that if such a plea were allowed "murders would multiply, by the dozens and our moral and socialties would be constantly shocked. The penalty of nine or ten years for manslaughter has no terrors for some people who in case they wished to seek vengeance would simply get drunk and shoot their victim."

IS THE PIG IRION INDUSTRY OF PENNSYLVANIA DECLINING?

The great activity during the past few years in the building of blast furnaces in the South has led the over-sanguine to predict the decline of pig iron manufacture in the North, especially in Pennsylvania, and the ultimate growth of the Southern States to the prominent position of the leading pig iron producing district of the country. The increase in the number of blast furnaces in the South, but especially in Alabama, during the past two years, has certainly been exceptional, the number in that State alone increasing from 24 completed and 19 building in November, 1887, to 44 completed and 8 building at the present time. All these new furnaces are of large capacity, being built upon the latest design and with powerful blowing machinery. A glance at the industry in Pennsylvania would seem to show that the prophesied decline in that State had really begun as there are but 230 active furnaces in the State to-day, whereas two years ago there were 242 furnaces which were in condition to make pig iron, a decrease in two years of 12.

This apparent decline in the number of furnaces in Pennsylvania, however, does not indicate a real decline in the producing capacity of the State. During the past two years those who have carefully noted the course of the industry know that, while Pennsylvania has built but few wholly new furnace plants, there has been great activity in the erection of new stacks to take the place of furnaces of small size and antiquated model, the addition of new and more powerful blowing engines, the substitution of fire-brick and improved iron stoves for the older types of iron stoves, the use of richer ores, and the adoption of more economic methods of furnace practice. As the result of the many improvements outlined above, we find on a careful comparison of the pig iron producing capacity of Pennsylvania in November, 1887, with its capacity today, as shown in a table published in a recent number of the Bulletin of the American Iron and Steel Association, that there has been an actual increase in capacity in these two years of 659,600 net tons.

We have ascertained the capacity of the furnaces in Alabama in November, 1887, and November, 1889, which will be found in the following table, in comparison with the capacity of the Pennsylvania furnaces at the same dates.

STATE.	Nov., 1887, Net tons.	Nov., 1889. Net tons.	Increase Net tons.
Penn'a	5,073,988	5,733,588	659,600
Ala.	428,000	1,277,000	849,000

It will be seen that, notwithstanding the decrease that took place in the two years in the number of furnaces in Pennsylvania, there was an increase in capacity of 659,600 tons. This increase is nearly 200,000 tons less than the increase in the same period in Alabama, but in making comparisons between the two States it must be borne in mind that the increase in capacity in Pennsylvania was not due to any special activity in the erection of new plants, but was almost wholly the result of improvements and additions that were made to existing plants in various parts of the State, whereas the increase that is shown in Alabama is the result of an activity that was phenomenal. That this ratio of increase is not to continue is seen by the number of stacks under construction in Alabama at the present time, numbering 8. Estimating the capacity of these 8 furnaces, two of which are charcoal, at 120,000 tons, which is about the output they will have when completed, and adding this amount to the increase in capacity noted above, we have a total of 1,059,000 tons as the increased pig iron capacity of Alabama since November, 1887, considering the furnaces now building as completed. Making the same calculation for Pennsylvania, where 5 furnaces are now under construction, 4 of which are large coke furnaces of great capacity, and estimating these 5 furnaces to have a capacity of 390,000 tons, which is about the quantity they will be able to produce when completed, we have 1,049'600 tons. Tabulating these figures we have—

CAPACITY	Pennsylvania. Net tons.	Alabama, Net tons
Increase in two years	659,600	849,000
Of furnaces building	390,000	210,000
Total	1,049,600	1,059,000

It will be seen that the increase in the two States is practically the same.

In Ohio there is noticed no change in the total number of furnaces in the two years under consideration, although an examination of details shows that five of the smaller charcoal furnaces have been abandoned, and a like number of new coke furnaces added to the active list. In addition to these new furnaces numerous improvements were made to existing furnaces in the way of more powerful and effective machinery, so that at the present time the annual capacity of the Ohio furnaces is 1,828,600 tons, as compared with 1,494,600 tons in November, 1887, an increase of 330,000 tons in capacity in two years. The comparisons that we have made for Pennsylvania and Ohio, without considering any of the other States in the North, certainly show that, so far as the pig iron industry of this section is concerned, it is not declining. On the contrary, the above comparisons show that in the Northern States there has quietly progressed as healthy and rapid an increase in the pig iron industry as has been exhibited by the Southern States and attracted so much attention.

WHAT A PITY.

The Watchman last week seemed to be considerably exercised over what it was pleased to term the "hollow and empty" "One hundred dollars reward" offer published in this paper, and asserted that the editor had not even one hundred cents let alone one hundred dollars.

We make no pretensions to being the possessor of the earth, the state, the county or even Bellefonte, but we somehow manage to get along and pay all our bills in a reasonable time. As to the "smart way" we would have adopted of getting out of paying the reward the Watchman's assertion is simply a "preach of its own practice." There was no necessity for us to resort to any way or means of evading payment of the reward offered as it was never called for during the two weeks it was out.

The reward was offered in good faith and had it been called for at that time and the necessary proofs produced to establish the claimants right thereto, the one hundred dollars would have been forthcoming whether the editor possesses one hundred cents or not. The fact which was at that time apprehended, has been undeniably established, the Watchman's assertions to the contrary notwithstanding, that at the recent election the democrats stuck to their ticket to a man, and that they polled the very largest vote that they can possibly command in Centre county.

There is no use kicking against stubborn facts, nor meeting conclusive argument with personal malignment, as neither will in anyway tend to prove the fact, that a democrat voted the prohibition ticket at the late election; the very idea is too preposterous for anything.

CUSHIONS OF PAPER.

During the Franco-German war the ladies in England were busy making paper cushions which they sent to France to be used for the wounded in the hospitals. Hundreds of thousands of these cushions were sent and were of great service. Now all England is crazy on the subject of paper pillows again. They tear the paper into very small pieces, not bigger than one's finger nail, and then put them into a pillow-sack of drilling or light ticking. They are very cool for hot climates and much superior to feather pillows.

The newspapers are printing appeals for them in hospitals. Newspaper is not nice to use, as there is a disagreeable oder from printers' ink; but brown or white paper and old letters and envelopes are the best. As they are, torn stuff them into an old pillowcase, and you can see when you have enough. The easiest way is to tear or cut the paper in strips about half an inch wide, and then tear or cut it across. The finer it is, the lighter it makes the pillows.

—For the accommodation of travel between Lewistown and Lewistown Junction, which has been interrupted by the destruction of the county bridge over the Juniata, the Pennsylvania Railroad Company has arranged a complete service of accommodation trains between the two stations. These trains connect to and from all trains of the Middle Division stopping at Lewistown Junction, and run as follows: Leave Lewistown Borough for Lewistown Junction 4 42, 6 28, 8 54, 10 30 a m, 12 55, 1 20, 4 25, 5 07, and 7 28 p m; leave Lewistown Junction for Lewistown Borough 5 05, 6 45, 9 45, 10 55 a m, 1 50, 4 42, 5 35, and 7 47 p m.

A CHANCE OF A LIFETIME.

The price of the BELLEFONTE REPUBLICAN is $1.50. We want 500 new subscribers before the 1st of January, 1890. How are we going to get them? Simply by giving more than has ever been given before in this county. Everybody wants to read a county paper, and all try to get the best. The REPUBLICAN is now as good a paper, and will, ere long be THE BEST in the county. We now make the following offer:

To all persons subscribing between this and the first day of January, 1890, and sending us $1.50 in cash, we will send them this paper from now until January 1, 1891; and, in addition, will send them the Philadelphia WEEKLY PRESS FREE.

Do not miss this chance. Subscribe now.

A Healthy Indicatio.

The report Robert P Porter, Superintendent of Census, has submitted to the Secretary of the Interior, justifies the opinion that the eleventh census will be the most complete in every respect that has ever been made. The inquiry is broader, and from what we know of the Superintendent's past performances we have reason to believe that the methods employed will insure more accuracy. Referring to the desire expressed in various parts of the country for information concerning the property owned by the occupants of dwellings in the cities, the Superintendent intimates a willingness to include these inquiries provided he is authorized to do so.

There are certain subjects that the public has a right to be fully informed of; matters closely connected with the government of the county. There are others which do not bear directly upon systems of transportation, value of products, and matters affecting or influencing moral conditions. If it is possible for the Superintendent to secure the information desired, it would be wisdom to interpose no barriers, for the simple reason that there never was a period in the history of the world when there was such anxiety expressed by people of all classes for information that will enlighten them concerning the great problem of living.

It does not follow because labor organizations have asked the Government to give them information which will at least serve as a basis for calculations which will determine the proportion of the people who are free from debt, that the anxiety augers a restive disposition, or dissatisfaction with the existing order of things. It is more reasonable to assume that the desire for information is evidence of an upward tendency; the workers who seek information affecting the necessities of workers are in a position to sympathize with workers everywhere, and that sympathy in this instance is not begotten by the misery that craves fellowship, but is rather the result of prosperity; the degree of prosperity that gives ample time to explore matters of importance affecting all the world. The breadwinner whose nose is held to the grindstone has neither inclination nor time to bestow upon his fellows.

The volume of information supplied inquirers on these and kindred subjects to-day embraces matters the past generation deemed as difficult as the enumeration of the hairs on a man's head. The manufacturer, merchant, and workman as well as the statesman is interested in reports showing the conditions yielding the greatest degree of comfort to the greatest number. Rightly considered, the desire for instruction in all matters indicating progress is a good sign.

In this connection it may be well to add that the Superintendent of the Eleventh Census is presumably competent in every way to detvise means to supply all the informasion attainable. His first essay at collecting data was in Pittsburg at a time when our industries were suspended, and differences between manufacturers and their employes excited apprehension throughout the country. Since then he has had ample opportunity to broaden his views and equip himself for the work in hand.

Of the seven weeds which the "weed law" of Wisconsin requires farmers, under penalty, to destroy, only one is a native of the United States, all the rest being naturalized importations from Europe, where they are common wild plants.

A Smith county, Kan., girl won $50 the other day by husking and cribbing 60 bushels of corn in five hours. There's no use talking, a girl who can husk corn that fast has no business to be single, with so many men waiting to be supported.

There is a movement to make a German Academy, like the French Academy, of 40 immortals, whose mission it shall be to preserve the purity of the German language.

THE MONATANA DEADLOCK.

The trouble at Helena over the starting of Montana's new State machinery may well suggest structural weakness in it to people not familiar with the partisan spirit that prevails in political deadlocks. It seems impossible for a condition of affairs such as we understand to exist there to arise, if the Constitution is clear on the points in dispute. The question is on the functions of the State Board of Canvassers. The Governer, who is a Democrat, is in possession of his office by virtue of a count made by this board. The same board returned the members-elect of the Legislature, a majority of whom are Republicans. But the Governor refuses to recognize the validity of these returns and disputes the power of the State Board to pass upon the election of the Legislature! He maintains that there is one way to determine who is elected members of the Legislature. The latter, he holds, are returnable by the County Boards of Canvassers, as the law was under the Territorial Government.

There must be weakness in the State Constitution if there is room for so wide a difference of opinion, provided the opinions are honestly held. The way the Governor has acted and the influences behind him justify the suspicion, however, that his county-board theory is based on a determination of the Democrats to capture the Legislature, right or wrong, and through it the two United States Senators to be elected. If the certificates from the county boards are to be recognized as legal the Democrats will have a slight majority, but if the returns from the State Board of Canvassers, the same from which the Governor received his title to office, prevail, the Republicans will be in control in the Legislature. The members whose election is in dispute come from Silver Bow. The State Board of Canvassers return Republicans, and the county board of that county certify to the election of the Democratic candidates.

Aside from the question of legality in the case the conduct of Governor Toole is most reprehensible. There is probably no room for dispute about the functions of the Governor as defined by the new Constitution. If he is more than Chief Executive, if his powers extend the legislative or judicial branch of the State Government, the Constitution is un-American, impracticable of operation, un-republican, and therefore unconstitutional when considered in the light of the federal Constitution. Governor Toole has undertaken to dictate how the Legislature should be organized. He has seized upon the legislative hall with the avowed purpose of preventing the admission of the Silver Bow Republican members, a dispute in which he has no right to interfere. Unquestionably the new Legislature of Montana has the same right to judge of the qualifications of its own members that every other parliamentary body has.

The Custer Battleground.

General Dandy of the Quartermasters Department, who is on a tour of inspection of the National cemeteries, has recently visited the Custer battle-ground, and finds the spot in good condition. As the battle was longer on a high ridge, it has been cut into gullies by storms, and many bodies have been exhumed. The monument is standing, but has been a good deal chipped off by tourists who annually overrun the ground. General Dandy will recommend a $15,000 appropriation for the purpose of putting an iron fence about the memorable spot where so many of the Seventh Cavalry and its gallant colonel laid down their lives.—Denver News

Anti-Kissing Societies for Women.

The Housekeeper.

There is one joke on women, which appears in the same column with the mother-in-law and spring-bonnet business, which is justifiable and well aimed. This is in regard to the foolish habit of kissing which prevails among women It is hard to see why it is done. If you ask women about it, one in four will tell you that she does not like it and would like to drop it, but that "they expect it you know." Indeed, so far has the objection to indiscriminate kissing among women gone that there are anti-kissing societies in many places; the women who belong pledging themselves not to kiss any woman in public, and only those whom they really care for in private.

A novel result of the temperance meetings at Noblesville, Ind., is reported. So many have signed the pledge and received badges that the supply of blue ribbon in the stores of the town has been exhausted.

FOR FORTY-TWO YEARS A MAN.

A Woman Who Masqueraded as a Man for Two Score of Years.

On the arrival of a passenger steamer from St. Briene the commander informed the police that a woman attired as a man was on board. She had, it appeared, taken passage for St. Briene, but the captain, having noticed certain peculiarities about the passenger, on reaching that port summoned a medical man, and he declared that the pseudo man was really a woman. He further certified that she was suffering from slight concussion of the brain, and the French authorities, in view of her mysterious conduct, refused to allow her to land.

On the steamer entering the harbor of St. Helier the woman took a cab and proceeded to a boarding house, where she had previously lodged for some time under the name of Louis Hermann. She had every appearance of a manhood, and from her easy deportment it is evident that male attire was no novelty to her. She wore a fur waistcoat, a long overcoat, a hat and a turned-down collar. She smokes a long pipe or cigar with an air of one accustomed to the habit. Left an orphan at the age of 13, she then resolved to adopt the male attire. She has now reached the age of 55 so that for forty-years she has been traveling the world, and has been known as a man.

Her calling has been that of a courier, and in that capacity she has traveled widely. She has a knowledge of several Continental languages and is otherwise well informed. The name by which she was generally known was Louis Hermann Tobosh, but in some cases she has drooped the last name and simply calls herself Louis Hermann. During the last year she had a balance of upward of £150 to her credit in a banking firm, but it is not known whether this has been drawn upon. When arrested by the Jersey police she had only 1s. 6d. in her possession, and she is indepted to the host to the extent of £3 10s. A number of papers found at her lodgings have been taken possession of by the police.

Where the Maidens Do the Courting.

In the Urkraine the maiden is the one that does all the courting. When she falls in love with a man she goes to his house and tells him the state of her feelings. If he reciprocates all is well, and a formal marriage is arranged. If, however, he is unwilling she remains there hoping to coax him into a better mind. The poor fellow cannot treat her with the least discourtesy or turn her out, for her friends would be sure to avenge the insult. His best chance, therefore, if he is really determined that he won't, is to leave his home and stay away as long as she is in it. This is certainly a very peculiar way of turning a man out of his house and home.

On the Isthmus of Darien either sex can do the courting, with the natural result that everybody gets married. There is not quite the same chance where the girl has to bide the notions of a hesitating or bashful swain.

Gala Days.

MRS. T. P. RYNDER.

The long happy days of the house cleaning time,
With their music of duster and brush
Ah! who that has known them can ever forget
The delight of their clatter and rush?

'Tis on these merry days; that the man of the house,
With his foot on an up-turned tack,
Gives the far-famed whoop of the cherokee
Which threatens the building to rack.

And these are the days when the minister calls,
When your husband brings with him to tea
A friend, whom he meets on his way up-town—
He may possibly bring two or three.

'Tis at this festive time that your long trusted help
Receives the sad message from home:
That her Mother has fallen and broken her arm,
And she "here-with is summoned to come."

'Tis on these breezy days when each black piece of pipe,
Seems bent on divorce from it's mate;
That the man who attempts their grave wrongs to re-right,
Is best left alone to his fate.

For sometimes—it is said by those who should know—
That when patience and fingers show wear,
The best-natured men in the world have been known—
But it cannot be true—we forbear.

Our Story Teler

A DOCTOR'S STORY.

I had been sent for in great haste, and had fancied that I was needed in some extremely critical case, for the hour was 9 in the evening and the night a stormy one.

What, then, was my surprise, when I had been ushered into a handsome parlor in one of the best hotels, to find, sitting in a large arm chair and with no appearance of ill health about her, a very beautiful woman, whom I knew to be an actress of position and had often admired upon the stage.

She was dressed in the most becoming fashion, and arose with a smile upon my entrance.

Her maid, a Spanish looking woman, with a beautiful olive skin, remained standing near the window.

'You look surprised, doctor,' the lady began, motioning me to a seat. 'You will be more so before you leave me. I am not ill, and I can see that you know that at a glance.'

'You certainly are looking very well, madame,' said I.

'I am feeling well,' said she. 'The question that I desire to ask you, as a man who has made the brain, in some degree, a specialty, is, am I mad? You need not mind my maid; she speaks no English. I want you to give me your opinion. Do you think me insane?'

'That is a very difficult question madame,' said I. 'A doubt of your rationality never would have occurred to me. Besides, insane people seldom guess their condition. However, you must have some reason for asking the question?'

'A very grave one,' she answered. 'Either I am out of my mind or there are such things as ghosts.'

'There are optical illusions also, madame,' said I.

'But illusions of the senses of sight and touch and hearing all at once. Would that not be madness?' asked she.

'Not if you were aware they were illusions,' I answered.

'But they seem real to me,' said the lady, 'oh, so real! I suppose you read the stories about me in the papers? You have heard of the man who killed himself for love of me?

'The Frenchman!' I asked. 'To tell the truth I have read it.'

'They said I was cruel to him,' said the lady, growing somewhat excited. 'I was not. I was kind at first but he dogged my footsteps and threatened my life. Not at first of course, but after I had accorded him an interview, and refused him as gently as a woman could refuse a man. He wanted me to marry him. He was rich, of good family; he was honorable, and very, very much in love. But I, how could I love a stranger? And he was ugly, a great, savage looking creature. After that he tried to kill me. He shot at me. I had him arrested, and he committed suicide in prison.' She paused and shuddered. 'It is he who comes,' she added.

'Naturally,' said I, 'you have been greatly shocked. You dream of him, and your dreams are so vivid that you fancy them actual occurrences.'

'I knew you would say that,' she sighed, 'but I have very vivid dreams, for in them friends who have been dead for years come to me. They speak and move, and touch me. But when I awake I know I have been dreaming. This is different. My ghost—or my madness—comes to me upon the stage.'

'Upon the stage?' I repeated.

'Yes,' she answered. 'He says I shall not act again. I was playing a week ago when he came. He often comes, but never before did he touch me. This time he laid his hand upon my arm, and whispered:

'I tell you you must retire from the stage! I exact this penalty of you. The next time you tread the boards I will kill you!'

'Well?' said I.

'I fainted,' said the lady, 'and fortunately it was the correct thing to do at the moment. Only my fellow actors guessed the swoon to be a real one. But the next day I canceled my engagement. I declared myself ill. The truth is I was very much frightened, I had grown used to his staring and pointing to his throat, but when it came to touching me and speaking'——

She paused, shuddering violently.

'Yours is a case of disordered nerves, madame,' said I. 'I advise you to take a holiday.'

'I don't dare to go on acting!' she gasped. 'Don't you see that? Why, I really believe you do not know why I am so troubled! In the very prime of life, with everything I value at my hand, I must sink into obscurity—retire on a small sum of money, when I might make an immense fortune—give up the applause I live for, the art I adore—and all because a ghost will have it so!'

The tears arose to her beautiful eyes. She wiped them away and forced a laugh.

'Oh, you know I had rather think myself a little out of my mind than to believe in my ghost!' said she.

'So should I,' said I. 'If you will take my advice you will give yourself a holiday, surround yourself with friends, and forget your hallucination—it is one. You are just a little upset, and it will pass.'

I wrote a prescription.

'Take this at night,' I said. 'I assure you that science has distinctly proven the fact that ghosts do not appear to any one.'

Shortly I went my way. The fee sent to my office greatly exceeded my usual one, and the next day I read in the papers that Mme. —— had taken her physician's advice and would spend a twelve month in southern Europe.

It was more than a year, however, before I saw upon the walls of the finest theatre in the city the announcement of Mme. ——'s reappearance. She was to play her favorite role, and the papers were full of paragraphs concerning her. She was, they said, handsomer, in better voice, and altogether more charming than ever.

Seats at the theatre where she was to appear were sold three weeks in advance, and at fancy prices.

As I had my fortune yet to make I felt that it was somewhat extravagant to attend on the first night, but I did so nevertheless. It was an occasion of dress coats and white ties.

The house was full of the most elegant people in the city. The company was fine, the music excellent.

The curtain rose upon the unimportant characters who always usher in a play and finally the door at the back of the stage was flung open by a servant, and Mme.——entered. A roar of applause greeted her. The papers were right. She was handsomer than ever. Her role was one to call forth all her art. She did not fail.

As the play proceeded I noticed, however, that she occasionally glanced in the direction of one of the side scenes in a way I did not like. And as the curtain rose upon the last act there seemed to me a longer wait than usual at the time when she should have entered.

She advanced to the footlights. The part she played placed her in that scene in the midst of a howling mob, who threatened her.

She turned and faced them. They flourished weapons in the air. She addressed them, her tall form drawn to its full height. My memory of the play was that at this moment succor arrived, but it occurred to me that the scene was changed. From the midst of the mob a strange, wild figure rushed forth. I saw it but for a moment. It threw back the collar of its coat and revealed a red gash across its throat and flung out its hand toward her. I saw it but for a moment, wondering what connection it had with the play. Then I saw Mme.——fall forward on her face.

The curtain fell. The house was in an uproar of excitment. A moment after a call was made for a doctor. I was the first to answer it.

A little group of physicians gathered about the beautiful form that they had lifted to a sofa; but we saw at a glance that we looked upon a dead woman.

For my part a horror beyond that which sudden death inspires possessed me.

'Did you notice the moment at which she fell?' I asked a prominent physicion whom I knew well.

'Yes,' said he, 'as she spoke the last words of defiance. Her friends were about to appear.'

'I fancied one of the populace—the one who touched her, who had blood upon him—frightened her,' I said.

'Oh, no one touched her, my dear fellow,' he said 'There is nothing of the sort in the play. She awed them by her manner, you know. Good heavens, what a sad thing this is!'

'It is horrible!' I answered.

I think so still. No one but myself had seen the man with the blood upon his throat unless she did, and unless all that I am bound as a medical man to disbelieve is true there are such things as ghosts.—Mary Kyle Dallas in Fireside Companion.

HE IS WORTH HAVING.

A Dog That Won a Remarkable Wager a Few Days Ago.

A reporter of the Ventura (Cal.) Gazette was informed recently of a remarkable example of sagacity, understanding and obedience in a dog. The animal is what is called a shepherd dog, is ten years old, was born in Montana and cannot understand English, the man who raised him being a Mexican.

This Mexican is now in the employ of the Messrs. Schiappa Pietra as a sheep-herder, and in his duties is ably asissted by his dog. About a week ago he laid the following extraordinary wager with one of his employers; He bet his dog and a year's work against $100 that the dog would stay on the ranch alone, unattended by any human being, for five days; that the animal would take the sheep to pasture in the morning and bring them to the corral at night, and in fact look out for the sheep in every way as well as a man could.

The bet was taken and the Mexican first hanging up plenty of meat for the dog to eat, gave his instructions to his dumb assistant, and left the ranch coming to town. Last Sunday the money was paid over by Mr. Schippa Pietra, the dog having carried out for five days the instructions of his master and winning the wager for him.

The Mexican says his employers are rich (and of course they are), but that they have not money enough to buy that dog.

Proverbs About Rain.

When there is unusual clearness in the atmosphere, and objects are seen very distinctly, there will probably be rain. When clouds are gathering toward the sun at setting, with a rosy hue, they foretell rain.

Evening gray and morning red,
Put on your hat, or you'll wet your head.

If rain commences before day, it will stop before 8 a. m.; if it begins about noon, it will continue through the afternoon; if not till 5 p. m., it will rain through the night; if it clears off in the night, it will rain the next day.

If it rains before seven,
It will be clear before eleven.

If it rains before sunrise, expect a fair afternoon. If it rains when the sun shines, it will rain the next day. If clouds appear suddenly in the south, expect rain.

Rain from the south prevents the drouth,
But rain from the west is always best.

When rain comes from the west, it will not continue long. If rain falls during an east wind, it will continue a full day. If an assemblage of small clouds spread out or become thicker or darker, expect rain. Small inky clouds foretell rain. Dark clouds in the west at sunrise indicate rain on that day. If the sky after fine weather becomes heavy with small clouds, expect rain.—Boston Journal.

Dead Letter Money.

There is in the United States treasury vault a brown wooden box, eighteen inches long, a foot wide, and eight inches deep, which contains paper money of the nominal value of several hundred thousand dollars. It is not worth a dollar. The queer thing about it is the manner in which it was collected. Every bit of it came from the dead letter office of the office department. Some portion of it is counterfeit, but the most of it was genuine money many years ago The banks which issued it, and the officers who signed it, are gone and forgotten. It was all sent over to the treasuay department several years ago, and Assistant Treasurer Whelpley undertook to trace up the various banks and get as much as possible of it redeemed. Occasionally he found decendants of some of these old bank officials, themselves bankers, who were willing to redeem some of the notes for the sake of the signatures of their fathers, and in this way he succeeded in getting several hundred dollars' worth of it redeemed. A little of it is Confederate money, but most of it is of State and private banks that went out of existence many years ago. The oldest notes are dated back as far as 1812.

—State's Attorney: 'So the defendant did propose to you that you set fire to the store and get half of the insurance. State now whether or not he offered to protect you from all risk of punishment at the hands of the law. What did he say about that?' Witness: Yes, sir; he promised to see me through. He said he'd manage to catch me in the act and let you prosecute me.'

—An Autumnal proposal.—He (as they stand on the balcony): "It is very bright within and very dreary without, is it not? She: "Without what?" He (inspired): "You."

—'Why,' said the husband, 'do you put the hair of another woman on your head?' 'Why,' retorted his better-half, 'do you wear the skin of another calf on your hands?'

THINGS A WOMAN CAN DO BEST.

By KATE THORN.

Oh, yes, undoubtedly there are things that a woman can do better than a man.

They may be small matters, but they exist, and a woman can readily beat a man doing them and she should have the credit of it.

In the first place, she can wear a petticoat, and not take it up on her heels when she walks, and we doubt if the wisest man living can accomplish that little feat even after a good many times trying.

She can look as sweet as sugar when she feels cross enough to behead somebody.

She can be such excellent friends with a rival and help do up her back hair, when she hates her so that she would be glad if she caught the smallpox and got her face carved into the semblance of a Chinese cabinet.

She can scold better than any man living. She can think of more aggravating things to say in one hour than a man, no matter how many colleges he has graduated from, and how many dictionaries he has digested, can think of in six months.

She can cry, when she cannot gain her point any other way, and it is pretty tough work for the average man to cry, and not make a mess of it.

She can spank a baby better than a man. She feels that it is her right to do it, and a man always goes about it as if he was ashamed of it, and as if he didn't exactly know where to begin, or where to leave off.

She can drive hens out of the garden in half the time it will take a man to do it. It is no use to swear at hens. They do not understand profanity, but the swish of a skirt, and the flourish of a sun-bonnet are arguments they cannot withstand.

A woman can find something to talk about when a man would be dead broke for a topic.

She can manage to keep you waiting while she gets ready to go somewhere longer than five men could, unless they were youths in the clutches of a first love, and had to struggle with refractory neck-ties.

A woman can get more bundles together in half a day's shopping than a man can carry, and she can buy goods ten per cent cheaper than he can, because, in the first place, she always asks everybody what they paid for everything, and is thoroughly posted on prices; and, in the second place, she has the infinite patience to stand and talk to the clerks, and wheedle, and coax, and bargain, until, in the sheer desperation of utter soul-weariness, they take off two cents a yard, and think themselves lucky to escape so well.

A woman can be patient when the fire doesn't burn. She can look serene when the coffee won't settle. She can refrain from mentioning the Evil One when the bread is heavy. She can control herself, and not go into spasms, if her color is not ironed to suit her.

She doesn't go to Europe, or take to drink, when Tom "goes back" on her. she does a more sensible thing. She accepts Dick, and shows Tom that she didn't care a fig for him.

Women are the best part of creation. We all know that. The other sex may ridicule them all they please, but they wouldn't have women abolished for the world! There would be nobody to sew on buttons. Nobody to find fault with. Nobody to raise mustaches for. Nobody to feel an interest in your cold, and to put catnip poultices on you when you had the toothache. Nobody to buy ice-creams for. Nobody to love. Nobody to hug. Nobody to kiss, for it is a spectacle to make angels weep to see one man kiss another.

And so, in spite of the fact that women are the weaker sex, let us have women right along, because there are things that they can do better than men.—New York Weekly.

THE PAY OF JUDGES.

In truth the entire judicial system needs overhauling and strengthening. As a rule the United States judges are so poorly paid that few lawyers of ability and eminence are willing to accept the post, unless it be upon the Supreme bench. Some of the most learned Senators here made effort to increase and to equalize the compensation of district judges, but the cheese-paring economy of the House of Representatives has invariably prevented it. Most of them receive an annual salary of $3,500, out of which they have to pay traveling and other expenses incurred in the discharge of their duty. A few get $4,000 and still fewer $4,500. There is not a lawyer of ability in either house of Congress who will not admit that the salaries of these judges should be at least $5,000 each; and some of them in districts where facilities for travel are poor or primitive ought to get more. The circuit judges are paid $6,000 a year, and certainly the district judge should get $5,000.—Baltimore American.

Mrs. Grubber: 'Here I write a letter to the editor of the Punkinville Trumpet, askin' what would be proper an' inexpensive to git fer a weddin' present; an' here in the paper he's printed a list of about a hundred things what folks gives as weddin' presents, an' there aint one of em' costs less than a dollar.'

ROBERT NEILSON General

The Greatest Artesian Basin in the World.

Correspondence of San Francisco Examiner.

In the upper San Joaquin Valley, or what is more commonly termed the Tulare Valley, is to be found the greatest artesian basin in California, if not in the United States. It covers a territory about sixty miles in length and from fifteen miles to twenty miles in breadth, and is gradually extending. Many of these wells discharge over 2,000,000 gallons of water every twenty-four hours, and there is one in the Smith colony in Kern county which flows 3,000,000 gallons every twenty-four hours. Such a well is said to be capable of irrigating two sections of land, and a good-sized canal is required to carry the water. Another well spouts water to a height of thirty feet whenever the well is uncapped. Just south of Lulare Lake, and within a radius of ten miles, there are about three dozen of these wells averaging a flow of nearly 2,000,000 gallons to the well for every twenty-four hours.

Some of these wells send up considerable natural inflammable gas; and there is a well near Tulare Lake where, it is said, coffee can be made from the heat furnished by the gas as it comes up out of the well. A short time ago the borers working on the farm of Charles Lamberson, near Tulare Lake, brought up pieces of petrfied wood with their augers when at a depth of 1,000 feet. How it came there is a matter for conjecture. During the summer a gentleman living in Kern county was surprised one day by finding several small fishes in a trough where the water ran out of an artesian well located on his ranch. At first he supposed that someone was trying to play a joke on him. He took the fishes out of the trough, but his surprise knew no bounds when next morning he found quite a number of the finny tribe swimming around.

There was but one way to account for their being there. They had come up out of the artesian well. An examination of the fishes by different persons resulted in their being pronounced a species that is to be found in the Owens River country, situated almost directly on the opposite side of the Sierra Nevada Range. In the month of August one of the wells lying near the northern shore of Tulare Lake gave indisputable signs of a subteranean disturbance. The water suddenly fell in the well, and as suddenly rose again, but in that short time the color it assumed was an ashy white. It also became tepid and remained in that condition for several hours, when it resumed its usual condition.

A Watsontown man saw advertised "a sure cure for drunkenness." He forwarded the necessary dollar and received by return mail, written on a valuable postal card in beautiful violet ink the magic words: "Don't drink."

John Quinn, fireman on the P. & E. railroad, who about a year ago was struck by a bridge at Cooke's Run and thought at the time to be in danger of immediate death, was sent to the hospital at Williamsport, where the doctors fixed him up so good that he is now back on the road again.

Jeseph Davis, a brakeman on Lock Haven local, had the fingers and thumb of his right hand pretty badly used up while making a coupling in the Tyrone yard Saturday morning. The thumb was split its entire length and the first and second fingers were broken and mashed. The third finger also suffered.

The most fashionable hen in New York state is said to live in Winslow's Mills, in the town of Waldoboro. She started in life a plain, dark brown pullet, but soon exchanged this for a black and white suit. The next time she shed her feathers she came out as white as snow and this fall she appears in black, white and tan dress.

On Thursday there died in South Williamsport a man by the name of Michael McDonough, who had reached the remarkrble age of one hundred years last August. Mr. McDonough was once quite a wealthy man and kept hotel, but became poor through his generosity in helping others and died a pauper, being buried by the South Williamsport Poor Board. He was interred at Rocktown.

The best medical writers claim that the successful remedy for nasal catarrh must be non-irritating, easy of application, and one that will reach all the remote sores and ulcerated surfaces. The history of the efforts to treat catarrh during the past obliges us to admit that only one remedy has met these conditions, and that is Ely's Cream Balm. This pleasant remedy has mastered catarrh as nothing else has ever done, and both physicians and patients freely concede this fact. The more distressing symptoms yield to it.

A LADY'S PERFECT COMPANION.

PAINLESS CHILDBIRTH, a new book by Dr. John H. Dye, one of New York's most skillful physicians, shows that pain is not necessary in Childberth, but results from causes easily understood and overcome. It clearly proves that any woman may become a mother without suffering any pain whatever. It also tells how to overcome and prevent morning sickness' swelled limbs, and all other evils attending pregnancy. It is reliable and highly endorsed by physicians every where as the wife's true private companion. Cut this out: it will save you great pain, and possibly your life. GREATEST WALKING ON RECORD.

Jacksonville (Fla.) Sun and Press.

Brother Bell, of the Colored Bethel congregation, a few nights since, at a prayer meeting, took occasion, in the course of an exhortation upon the duties of life to fire a passing shot at the walking mania, now to prevalent, and developed some facts in relation to pedestrian feats that seem hitherto to have escaped notice. He said:

'My beloved bredren and sisters, dar is one ting I'm bound to say to you befo' I closes de exercizes dis nite, and dat is, don't you take no stock in dis yere walkin' business. Let dem white tramps, men and wimmin, alone; don't you spen' your money or your preshus time runnin' round after them; and for de Lord's sake, and your own, don't you try to make fools ob yourselfs by tryin' to do likewise. You men will find plenty ob exercise in attendin' to your work, an' you wimmen enuff to do ober your wash-tubs an' nussin' your babies, instead ob trampin' roun' and roun' de sawdust, day on an' day off, jiss to please a passel ob fools an' ruin your own self. Besides, my beloved frends, all de braggin' dat dey duz 'bout dere 'long walks,' 'long times,' an' what dey calls 'fizzikal endoorinse,' ain't wuth shucks, when you comes to compare dem wid one pufformance dat tuk place thousands of years ago, an' de reason dey don't mention it is bekase none ob dese sportin' folks eber reads dare Bibles. Well, I'll tell you what it wuz—an' it's de greatest 'sportin' match,' as dey calls it, dat eber come off on de face ob dis yearf. None ob you 'hippy-dram' bisness heah! No, No, sah! oN, sah Fair heel an' toe walkin'—judges appointed, track measured, time kep' (accordin' to the Skriptures) an' a reckord made—yes an' a reckord made dat can't be denied;, 'cause here it is—yes, here it is in dis preshus book! Now, jist turn ober your Bibles, my frens, an' look at fift chapter ob Genesis, twenty-second vuss, an' what do you fine? Why, you fine dat 'Enoch—walked—wid—God! (after he begatted Mefoosaly)—three hundred years! "Three hundred years. Dar was a wark for you. Jiss shutt yo' eyes, an' 'flect on it! Three hundred years!!! Besides de reckord says dat when de ole man made dat match, an' had dat chile (who kep' on livin' until he was nine hundred an' sixty-nine years ole—mousus good stuff in that family!)—I say, when de ole man made dat match, an' had dis chile, he was sixty-five years ob age, and den walked three hundred years! Talk 'bout yo' 'fizzikle endoorinse' after dat! Talk 'bout yo' 'pluck' and yo' 'grit' after dat! Why, de ole man has done laid out all ob dese now-adays blowers as flat as a dead shad! So much for dis 'straordinary pufformance.' But dat ain't all ob it. Dere's mo yet.

If you'll jiss look at the twenty-fourth vuss ob de same chapter, you will fine, my b'loved frens, what a orful warnin' is in dat vuss to yo' foolish creatures who has de conceit to make sich onet ekal matces. Did any good come ob de old man Enoch's walk? Did he make anything outen it? No, my bredren and sisters. No! No! He loss by it—loss eberyting by it—neber 'preached in de ring agin—in fack, he 'went up.' Jiss read de vuss: 'An—Enoch—walked—wid—God—an'—he—was—not' (dat is, he warn't nowar), 'for God tuck him.' 'God tuck him!' To be shuan, he tuck him! He was bound to be tuck! He helt out a long time, de ole man did; he was game to de last; he was doing his level best, but 'Ole Marster' was to long in de stride, an' too sound in the wind for hin' an' tuck him on de last run' yes my b'eloved frens, an' he'll take anybody dat tries dat game on him, an' histe him higher'n a kite, jist as he did Ole Boss Enoch. So take warnin' by dis orful lesson; let all dis kink of foolishness alone, an' tend to yo' proper callin's, like good Christshuns. An' now let us pray!'

TO ADVERTISERS!

HOW TO GET THE MOST SERVICE FOR THE MONEY!

The Advertiser who would be willing to pay twenty-five cents for every family who could be "educated" up to the value of his goods would thus devote $3,000,000 to educate the 12,000,000 families which make up the 60,000,000 of the United States. This sum would do the business thoroughly in a year, for it is sufficient to pay for the insertion of a full column in every issue of every publication, and for resetting the matter, making it new in every issue of each separate publication. We will receive and execute the contract.

$5,000 One of the most successful Advertisers we ever had always ordered his advertisements in this way, "Get the best service you can for me for $5,000," leaving every detail to us. We were thus enabled to say to a Publisher, if you put this in at a large reduction from your rate it will be no criterion for further transactions. It was a surprise to find ourselves so often able to contract for the insertion of that particular advertisement at half rates, in papers which would not permit us to OFFER their columns at a penny's deviation from a printed schedule. The advertising rates of one New York paper are double those of another which has twice the circulation of the first. Similar discrepancies are not uncommon. The advertisement intrusted to us to be placed in accordance with our judgment often does double service for half the money. A dollar for twenty-five cents.

$1,000 If we are given authority to insert advertisements to a limited amount, in such mediums as ofier inducements which seem to us specially favorable, we shall not abuse the confidence reposed in us, and shall render statements of whatever is done (if anything) from day to day. When TRUSTED with the placing of an advertisement, we are put upon honor, and are bound in honor to give the best service possible for the money to be used.

$500 Leading Newspapers, especially the leading Agricultural Newspapers, frequently issue large special editions (of twenty, fifty, a hundred, or even five hundred thousand copies,) and solicit advertisement orders from us on terms which would often be accepted by our patrons if there was time to invite attention to the matter; but the question must generally be decided before there would be time to write and receive a reply, and often the case cannot be fully stated within the limits of a letter.

$250 Prepare a small advertisement and send with check for $250, or any other sum. The practice of asking the Agent to name his papers in advance compels him to name such as are well known, otherwise there is reason to suspect that his judgment is biased;—and the best papers do not like to have their rates quoted below their schedule.

$100 The advertiser who sends his advertisements asking for the best service possible for one hundred dollars, will often get from five to fifty per cent more service for his money, than he would had he required us to tell him in advance exactly what service we would promise; for when an estimate has been given its plan and specifications must, in a general way at least, control the advertising to be done: It ties the Agent's hands and prevents his giving his patrons TO-DAY a better service than he could have promised yesterday, because yesterday the opportunity had not presented itself: to-morrow it may have passed! Some publications are used more economically on contracts for a single issue; in others insertion for a month may be had as cheaply as for a single week but in furnishing an estimate in advance, if the Agent attempts to go into details, his correspondence becomes voluminous and the advertiser confused.

$50. If you are in the habit of occasionally inserting a small advertisement in a few papers, investing a few dollars and carefully noting the result; we desire you to make trial of our Advertising Bureau, sending us the advertisement and the money, leaving the selection of the papers to us, and judging of the service rendered by results rather than by names, circulation claims or prices. To make up careful estimates calls for much work. It don't pay to make them indiscriminately for every applicant. If such estimates as are asked for were always given the Advertiser who wished to expend $50 would frequently find himself in posession of a scheme which it would cost $500 or possibly $5,000 to carry out.

$10. We devote all necessary care to placing small orders for Advertising:—even the smallest! Time is saved by sending check with the order. Often the Advertiser is not possessed of sufficient information on the subject to enable him to judge of the merits of an estimate for advertising, and he decides by the footings of the figures whether he will or will not do the work. Yet the estimate binds the Agent and makes it improper for him to make any variation in its specifications, however much his judgment may point to material changes which ought to be made. This is specially liable to be the case when the order comes a considerable time after the estimate was made.

LITERARY NOTE.

THE National Magazine for December will contain an interesting article by Prof. Schele de Vere of the University of Virginia, entitled "A Chat about Numerals" giving many curious historical facts. Quite a noteworthy contribution to the poetic literature of America will be "The Nativity; a Christmas Carol" by F. W. Harkins, Chancellor of the National University of Chicago, whose Shakspearean essays are continued in this number. "The University Extension System of England" will prove a timely article; being supplemented by a description of a benevolent Society for similar work lately organized in Chicago with headquarters at 147 Throop St. called "The University Extension and Home Culture Society." This scholarly magazine is the cheapest of our monthlies, being only $1.00 per year. Sample copy 10 cts. Published the first of each month by the National University of Chicago, whose novel teaching by mail will be described in this number.

Have the moral courage to discharge a debt while you have the money in your pocket.

A Bellefonte young man was courting a red haired girl and had made an engagement to take her out riding. He drove up to her residence in one of Larrimer's best rigs and as she met him at the door he exclaimed, "Hello, Ready!" She misunderstood him and they don't speak now.

Have the courage to own you are poor and thus disarm poverty of its sharpest sting.

Have the courage to wear your old clothes until you have the money to buy new ones.

He was a Mean Man.

Detroit Free Press.

"Talk about closeness and calculating stinginess," said a down town business man on Saturday to a group of friends "I used to know a citizen of this community who was just about as 'mean' a person as the Yankee says, as ever I met. I give you my word that this old codger, who was in the drug business on a prominent thoroughfare, used to go to a popular saloon where an elaborate free lunch was set out every day at just noon. He would walk up to the bar, buy a five cent cigar, which he invariably put carefully away in his pocket, then he would tackle the lunch. And my! how he would make the soup, the cold meat, the salad, the cheese, the pickles disappear. For fully fifteen minutes he would minister to the needs of the inner man, then would wash his hands and return to his apothecary shop as well satisfied as most men would feel after a dinner at Delmonico's. But what do you think he used to do with that five-cent cigar, for he never smoked? Sold it to the first customer who came in for ten cents."

"Vent, Vida, Vici".

The Exposition is closed until October next. We saw it; it was great, being in its infancy, but we saw enough to convince ourselves of the fact that enterprise, such as displayed there, should not be passed by without some comment. But we still wonder why it was that only one whole-sale liquor house was so boldly represented. You could see its pyramid of bottles from any part of the great building. It was the prettiest display there. Max Klein has proved to the public that he wants to be seen. His "Silver Age" rye whiskey has now such a well earned reputation that he is proud of it and he wants every-body to see it. His goods are pure and reliable You can have his Silver Age at $1.50 per full quarts. His Guckenheimer, Finch, Overholt or Gibson at $1.00 per quart, or 6 quarts for $5.00. Send for his price list and mention this paper. His address is MAX KLEIN,

BEGGS BADLY SCARED.

His Alibi Shattered by the State's Rebuttal Testimony.

O'SULLIVAN ALSO SCORED.

Saloon Keeper Nieman Flatly Denies That Hyland Was in His Place on the Night of May 4—A Sensational Rumor Denied—Schaack's Story.

CHICAGO, Nov. 27.—The closing day of the case of the defense in the Cronin trial was attended by a sensational incident, which is by some considered significant. Suspect Beggs, senior guardian of Camp 20, Clan-na-Gael, was unwell when the day's session was begun. His wife urged him to save himself by naming the assassins, and this appeal so unnerved him that he fainted on the way to the court room. It is believed by careful and shrewd observers that he is the only one of the defendants who stands a chance of acquittal, and it is believed that his attorneys have warned him that he will probably get a long term in prison.

CAPT. SCHAACK.

The first witness called by the state in rebuttal was Dr. Curran. His testimony was ruled off. Then Capt. Schaack was called. He swore that Detective Crowe had never reported to him the alleged conversation with Milkman Mertes. Alfred Kettner, the jeweler, reiterated his story about seeing Coughlin and O'Sullivan in the neighborhood of the Carlson cottage on the evening of May 4, and he was very positive that Peter Koch, introduced by the defense, was not O'Sullivan's companion instead of Coughlin.

Politician Dawson's Testimony.

The first witness called in the morning was Bailey Dawson, a well known politician. In reply to Judge Longenecker's question, Mr. Dawson testified that on the night of May 4 he was in the Emergency hospital, on the north side. He was also there on May 5.

Witness remembered meeting Mr. Beggs at the Grand Pacific hotel, when he (Beggs) was introduced to Col. Babcock by Mr. Gleason, but it was on the evening of May 11, and not May 4. This created a sensation, as it directly contradicts the testimony of Francis Gleason, who swore that he introduced Beggs to Mr. Dawson and Col. Babcock on the night of May 4 at the Grand Pacific hotel.

Defendant Beggs looked very sick this morning, and said he felt bad. "I am dizzy, and I feel very bad," he said in reply to an inquiry.

No Attempt to Pump Coughlin.

The story printed that a number of prominent Irishmen had called on Dan Coughlin and tried to induce him to tell what he knew of the conspiracy is denied by Mr. Forrest, who declared there was nothing in it.

On the cross examination by Mr. Foster, Mr. Dawson was positive that he was in the hospital from April 24 to May 7.

Col. Babcock was sworn, and testified that he met John F. Beggs for the first time on May 11. He also testified that he called on Mr. Dawson at the hospital on May 5.

Nieman, the saloon keeper, was then called. He said he had been introduced to James Hyland, and swore that to the best of his belief James Hyland was not the tall man who came into his place Saturday night, May 4, nor Sunday night, as O'Sullivan claims.

This was considered all the refutation the iceman's alibi required, and the witness, after passing through the cross examination fire unscathed, was permitted to depart, and Simon Olsen, a livery stable keeper, was called.

With Olsen and his employes the state intends to demolish, or at least materially weaken, Burke's alibi. This alibi was that Burke was all the evening of May 4 in Donahy's saloon. William Coughlin and John O'Mally swore to seeing him there, they together having stopped there about 7 o'clock on their way to a west side saloon opening.

Smashing Burke's Alibi.

Olsen swore that on the evening of May 4 at 6:30 o'clock he sent his driver, Fred Swanson, with a carriage to Wm. Coughlin's saloon, on John O'Mally's order. He saw the carriage stop in front of the saloon, and ten minutes after it was driven away. The carriage returned to the stable at 12:30 o'clock that night. Then the driver, Swanson, told his story, and when he had finished there was a big hole in Burke's alibi.

He swore that, a few minutes after stopping at Coughlin's saloon, O'Mally and a young man got into the carriage, and he drove them directly to the west side, not even passing Donahy's saloon. And that neither did they do so on the return, which was not until after midnight.

William Coughlin was not with the party. The cross-examination was very lengthy, but the witness possessed a clear memory, and his story remained unshaken.

Suspect Burke looked very crestfallen when the witness left the stand.

An Editor Cowhided by a Woman.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 27.—Editor John C. Dickie, of Cameron, Mo., who recently inserted in his paper an attack on the character of A. C. Weaver and his wife, was cowhided in front of the postoffice by Mrs. Weaver. A printer seized Mrs. Weaver and tried to take the whip from her, but bystanders interfered and freed Mrs. Weaver, who renewed the attack. Finally, Bickle caught the whip and started to run away, when Mrs. Weaver hit him on the head with a rock. This is the second whipping Bickle has received in six weeks.

Callaghan Replies to Powderly.

PITTSBURG, Nov. 27.—Callaghan denies Powderly's allegation that the Reading Railroad company is behind his charges. "I would ask the Reading railroad to publish my letter to them when I returned their free pass. See how that will explode Powderly's humbug," he says.

THAT PROPOSED COMBINE.

Powderly Talks About the Knights and the Farmers' Alliance.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 27.—General Master Workman T. V. Powderly, who has just arrived in this city from the Knights' convention at Atlanta, expresses his views on the proposed amalgamation of the Knights of Labor and the Farmers' Alliance. Mr. Powderly says that some form of consolidation between the two great bodies will be accomplished at an early date.

"We are for the amalgamation, body and soul," said the Knights' executive, "and I have good reasons to think that the Alliance is very favorably disposed toward the scheme. On Dec. 3 General Secretary John W. Hayes and Mr. A. W. Wright, of the executive board, will meet a committee from the Farmers' Alliance at St. Louis, where they will thoroughly discuss the feasibility of the problem.

"The principles of the two organizations are identical, and each is working to accomplish the same end—the betterment of the laboring classes. But behind this is the political idea. Both the Farmers' Alliance and the knights are one politically. There are political evils which are hampering the productiveness of labor. An injury to one class of trade affects, either directly or indirectly, all other classes.

"By an amalgamation or federation the Knights and the Farmers' alliance will have about 3,000,000 votes, an army so vast that politicians will not dare spurn it. For over one year we have been receiving letters from prominent men in the Farmers' alliance, asking us to consider the practicability of an amalgamation. The officers of the Knights of Labor will readily throw up their offices, and be subsidiary workers in the amalgamation.

"No sensible man can disparage the magnitude and importance of such a step. It might mean that the two organizations when combined would wield such a political power as to control the presidency. I think that if an amalgamation is brought about, the American Federation, with its half million followers, the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, with its many thousands, and other great labor bodies, will want to be merged. It will probably mean the birth of a new political party, which will have sufficient strength to control tariff and other legislation."

Cleary Must Stand Trial Again.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., Nov. 27.—Judge Smith, holding circuit in this city, has denied the motion of counsel for ex-Alderman Cleary that the indictment for bribery against his client be dismissed or that the people be compelled to proceed against him. The judge also denied a motion by the defendant's counsel to the effect that the case be brought to trial during the term in February next, or that the defendant be discharged. The people must give the defense fifteen days' notice, at least, of their readiness to resume the prosecution. The ruling of the judge in effect continues the case until the February circuit in this city.

A Well Known Free Trader Killed.

DETROIT, Nov. 27.—Hon. William G. Brownlee, aged 50 years, a well known free trader and lumberman of this city, was killed at his mill while assisting a gang of men in unloading a heavy piece of timber from a freight car. His head and chest were crushed. He was a leading western exponent of free trade doctrine, and once ran for congress on that platform in the First Michigan district. He was the first candidate on this continent on a free trade platform.

Rumored Combine of Print Works.

BOSTON, Mass., Nov. 27.—A rumor has been current in dry goods circles for some days to the effect that a consolidation of print works was on the tapis which will embrace the Manchester at Manchester, N. H., the Pacific at Lawrence and the Indian Orchard (Mass.) mill, the consolidated interests to be controlled by British capital. Treasurer Saltonstall, of the Pacific mills, was asked about the report, but would neither confirm nor deny it.

The Loss Was $20,000.

LAKE VILLAGE, N. H., Nov. 27.—Brawn's block, owned by Henry S. Brawn, has burned with its contents. It was occupied by its owner, stoves and tinware; George F. Leavitts, shoe dealer; Blaisdell & Platt, cigar manufacturers; tax collectors' and Dr. Levi Edwards' offices; G. A. R. post, Knights of Pythias and the Order of Tonti. H. E. Brawn's dwelling and barn were also burned. Total loss now estimated at $20,000. Total insurance, $12,000.

Children Killed, Parents Badly Hurt.

DAYTON, O., Nov. 27.—The two story brick dwelling of Scott Hawthorne was blown to atoms by an explosion of natural gas at 1 o'clock in the morning. Two children were killed and Hawthorne, his wife and father were terribly and probably fatally injured. A call went in from the scene for the natural gas officials to turn off the gas from that section. The explosion was heard all over the city.

The Pettus Inquest Begun.

NEW YORK, Nov. 27.—Coroner Levy has begun the inquest on the death of Stephen L. Pettus, who was shot by Mrs. Hannah B. Southworth last Friday. Some delay was occasioned by several of the important witnesses being required to give their testimony before the grand jury before going to the coroner's inquest. Insanity will be the de-

Fatal Steel Mill Explosion.

PITTSBURG, Nov. 27.—An explosion occurred at the Allegheny Bessemer steel works, Duquesne. A night superintendent named William Marshal and a man named Cooper were killed, and a number of others injured. The mill is a complete wreck.

Lunatic Maloney Is Dead.

BUFFALO, Nov. 27.—Maurice Maloney, the escaped lunatic who was found unconscious in a lodging house Sunday night, was returned to the asylum, having, as was supposed, recovered. He soon sank into another stupor, and died within an hour.

WASHINGTON GOSSIP.

Reed Stock in the Speakership Contest Booming.

THE EAST SOLID FOR HIM.

Rumors of an Effort to Seat Three West Virginia Republicans—A Jamaica Exhibition—Admiral Walker to Confer With Secretary Tracy.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27.—It is reported that Senator Quay and the Pennsylvania leaders have formally assured Reed that he will get all the Pennsylvania votes. It also looks as if the New York delegation would be for Reed, and that he will have the east solid. He now claims seventy votes on the first ballot, with hope of getting enough to nominate him.

The speakership contest, therefore, at last begins to get interesting. There are now nearly if not quite one hundred Republican representatives in town, and they will do little else during the week than talk about the prospects of Reed, McKinley and the others.

Belden on the Ground.

Representative Belden, who has been so anxiously looked for, has at last arrived.

Belden will endeavor to get the delegation together to arrange a plan of action. There seems to be little doubt that the empire state men are practically unanimous for the man from Maine, and it is hardly a wild prediction to say now that Reed will be nominated without a serious struggle.

The Democrats are a good deal worked up over a report that an effort will be made before the election of a speaker to seat the three Republicans from West Virginia and one or two others who were deprived of the certificates by Democratic governors. There has been some talk that a motion will be made that these men be sworn in.

Lively Times in Prospect.

Gen. Clark, the Democratic clerk of the house, who calls the body to order, would probably refuse to put the motion, although a majority of the house would unquestionably favor it. In that event the member who makes the motion must put it himself, as John Quincy Adams did in a similar case at the opening of the Twenty-fifth congress. Mr. Adams declared his motion carried, and his men were sworn in.

The Democrats are a good deal alarmed over the report, and propose to discuss at their caucus means of resisting such an attempt. According to their talk in the ways and means committee room, they expect to compel the temporary adoption of any rules, or else prevent the transaction of any business.

Just how they are going to do this is not easy to foretell, but they expect to elaborate a scheme to that end on Friday night. Representative McComas has called a meeting of the southern Republicans, at which time it is hoped it will be agreed that the seventeen southern votes be cast for the man who is to win.

An Exhibition in Jamaica.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27.—Consul Allen, of Kingston, under date of Oct. 25, 1889, advises the department that arrangements are being made for the holding of an exhibition to be known as the Jamaica exhibition, and to be conducted under government auspices.

Although the arrangements are still incomplete, it is the intention of the promoters to open the exhibition early in the winter of 1890. The colonial government is now engaged in securing a guaranty fund, and this fund is being generously subscribed to.

A large space in the exhibition building will be given to exhibits from the United States, and such exhibits will be admitted free of duty. The goods of American manufacturers which find a ready sale in that market are canned goods of all varieties, edibles, such as ham, bacon, flour, split peas, salt mackerel, and cheese, crackers, rice, herring and codfish, cottage furniture and tobacco.

The consul thinks that the opportunity will prove a good one for exhibiting sugar machinery, such as is manufactured by those of our machine shops especially interested in this class of work.

Will the Squadron Go to Brazil.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27.—Admiral Walker, in command of the squadron of evolution, now in Boston harbor, has been ordered to Washington, at his own request, for conference with the secretary of the navy.

It is supposed that the conference had something to do with the proposition to send the squadron to Brazil instead of sending it to Europe, as originally proposed.

More Natural Gas at Buffalo.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Nov. 27.—Another big find of natural gas has been made here. Mr. George Rochevot, the brewer, whose first well proved a success, put down a second one, and at the depth of 965 feet a flow was struck that will give at least 500,000 cubic feet of gas every twenty-four hours. In addition to supplying his brewer boilers, Mr. Rochevot has arranged to pipe the gas for domestic and manufacturing purposes throughout the city.

Dastardly Work of Would Be Wreckers.

HARTFORD, Conn., Nov. 27.—What might have been a serious accident was prevented by the discovery of ties placed across the track of the Consolidated road in six different places near the Connecticut river bridge. Two tramps were seen on the track about that time, and a man answering the description of one of them was arrested at Thompsonville.

Huey Ousted from Office.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Nov. 27.—Judge Simonton has made a decree in the matter of the Commonwealth vs. A. P. Huey, recorder of Bradford city, ousting Huey from the office. He claimed title to the office under the act of March 24, 1877, but the court declares the law unconstitutional.

A Steamship Sinks with 500 People.

LONDON, Nov. 27.—A dispatch from Constantinople says: "The Turkish journal Soodet reports that the steamship India, with 500 Mohammedan pilgrims on board, has been sunk in the Ægean sea, and that of all on board only the captain and two passengers survive."

Changes in High Irish Offices.

DUBLIN, Nov. 27.—It is officially stated that the Right Hon. Peter O'Brien, now attorney general for Ireland, succeeds Sir Michael Morris as lord chief justice of Ireland. Mr. Madden, now solicitor general, becomes attorney general, and Mr. Atkinson becomes solicitor general and crown prosecutor.

THE COSTA RICAN RIOTS.

Esquivalists Flying to Guatemala—The Central American Union.

BOSTON, Nov. 27.—A Herald special, dated San Jose, Costa Rica, Nov. 14, says that Don Ascension Esquival and Senora Esquival remain at the American consulate, where they took refuge at the time of the uprising. The principal Equivalists are leaving for Guatemala. Some of them say:

"The Rodriguistas will pay dearer than they have expected. Their party is dead against the Central American union, while the Esquivalists, as a rule, are in favor of it. The Esquivalists will go north to swell the forces of the Guatemalacos, Salvadorenos and Hondurenos, and little Costa Rica, with her scant population thus further depleted, will be forced to enter the union."

The latest reports from the Central American congress are those of the third session. It provides for new steamer lines for ports between Acapulco and Panama, and considers the question of improved railway service from one end to the other of the five republics. Traffic between the states in natural products, and with some exception in those manufactured from Central American raw materials, will be free. The diet will continue to meet from year to year, but after 1890 the number of delegates will be three from each republic.

The general government will begin on Sept. 15 of the coming year. From that date the present republics will cease to be so called, and will adopt instead the name of the "States of the Republic of Central America." The old Central American flag will be restored, each state putting its particular shield in the center thereof.

Negroes and Whites Fight on a Train.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Nov. 27.—A serious encounter between negro passengers and the white crew of a train that left here Saturday took place at Tultic, Sunday. One negro was killed and others fatally wounded. The disturbance was begun by a negro, who attempted to set a brake between the stations. The brakeman's interference was the signal for a fierce conflict, in which pistols, knives and clubs were used. The negroes are making such threats that greater violence is feared. The United States marshal has provided guards for all the trains, the road being in the hands of a receiver appointed by the court.

A School Treasurer in Trouble.

JEFFERSONVILLE, Ind., Nov. 27.—The county commissioners have instructed the county attorney to bring suit against Col. John W. Ingraham and his sureties for any funds in his possession. Col. Ingraham has been treasurer of the city school board for fifteen years, and his integrity was undoubted. He retired three weeks ago. He borrowed money four years ago to build the high school, claiming that he had $30,000 at his command, but it is claimed he was really short nearly that amount. The school fund will probably be compelled to suffer the loss, as none of Ingraham's sureties are thought to be solvent.

Murderer Metcalf Pleads Guilty.

JANESVILLE, Wis., Nov. 27.—Metcalf, the murderer of Isabella Everson, at Edgerton, has surprised every one in court by changing his mind and entering a plea of murder in the second degree. Judge Bennett has not passed sentence, but it will not be less than fourteen nor more than twenty-five years in prison.

An Uprising in Hayti.

NEW YORK, Nov. 27.—The steamer Prince Frederick, from Port au Prince, Nov. 20, brings news of an uprising in the island of Hayti. It was reported that there were 5,000 men armed to depose Hippolyte.

BRIEF MENTION.

Isadore H. Sultzbach, the clothing dealer at Thirteenth street and Ridge avenue, Philadelphia, has made a general assignment, for the benefit of creditors, to Simon Bacharach. His liabilities are estimated at $225,000, the assets being the stock and the store property, the latter being mortgaged for 90,000.

James Hays and wife and seven boarders, of Mount Pleasant, Pa., have been poisoned by eating sausage, Mrs. Hays being in a critical condition.

Seely Hopkins, of Phillipsburg, Center county, Pa., who murdered his wife and mother-in-law on Sept. 22, has been indicted by the grand jury at Bellefonte, and his trial has begun.

The stockholders of the broken Lawrence bank, of Pittsburg, have met and asked the directors to appoint an assignee and wind up the bank's affairs as soon as possible.

The Pennsylvania State Wool Growers' association met in Pittsburg and passed resolutions deprecating the admitting of wool as a raw material, the substitution of ad valorem for specific duties, the admission of ring waste, and advocating the protection of woolen and worsted industries and the election of Mr. McKinley, of Ohio, as speaker of the house.

Caldwell, Wilcox & Co., iron manufacturers, Newburg, N. Y., have made an assignment.

Cigar manufacturer Nafial, of Keyport, N. J., and several other citizens of that vicinity have received blackmailing letters threatening them with destruction of property if they do not pay money to the writers.

Mr. Labouchere's determination to bring the London scandals before parliament is said to have caused consternation in interested circles.

A Brazilian war vessel arrived in British waters flying the flag of the new republic, and as the commander refused to take down the emblem at the request of the British admiral, the customary salute from the forts and war vessels was withheld.

The leading Democratic representatives-elect have decided to call a caucus in the hall of the house of representatives Friday evening, to nominate candidates for the various offices in the next house.

DARING ATTEMPT AT ROBBERY.

Three Men Determined to Rob T. B Budinger's Store in Snow Shoe. Pa.

Special to the DAILY NEWS

SNOW SHOE, PA., Nov. 25.

This city appears just now to be infested with a band of organized burglars or else there are some villainous wretches here who have made up their minds to make their living by stealing it. On last Tuesday night the store of T. B. Budinger was broken into and robbed and a most daring attempt was again made on Friday night or Saturday morning.

Three men simultaneously attempted to effect an entrance to the building. One party attacked the front door, another assailed the upper window above the office and the third man broke in the window of the warehouse. All thei trouble, however, availed them nothing, for by this time the watchman awoke and, with the cry "look out boys, I am coming," make a break for the burglars. A lively time ensued for a few minutes but the offenders all escaped apparently unhurt. They did not succeed in getting anything and the damage they done in trying to break into the building is not very great.

Pittsburg B C & Y Railroad.

Hon. Charles W Stone has recently written a letter to the Editor of the Du-Bois Express in regard to the new railroad. The letter says in part that the Pittsburg, Beech Creek and New York Railroad Co., was chartered October 24th. It is to exist for 98 years, and runs from a point at or near Mill Hall, Clinton county, thence by the most feasible route through Centre, Clearfield, Jefferson, Indiana, Armstrong, Clarion and Butler counties to Butler. Its length is 150 miles. Its capital stock is $1,500,000. The incorporators and the number of shares of stock taken by each are as follows: Lorenzo Everett, 14,920 shares C D Berger, M A Berger, A I Kremer, W W Fisher, D A Kremer, S G Stradtler, P Faust, Robert H McCormick, all of Watsontown. The shares are taken at $100 each.

The Du Bois Express also has a letter from Mr. Lorenzo Everett; of Watsontown, as follows: 'The Pittsburg, Beech Creek and New York Railway is in its infancy, but think it will be what you desire—an outlet for your thriving town. An opportunity no doubt will be given you to show the advantages a railroad would derive by tapping your town.

Business Resumed.

The indications now are that the Pennsylvania Railroad will be in shape to run trains on its regular lines by monday next, the same as usual. Trains came over the Northern Central road yesterday, a coal train went over the Linden bridge yesterday and the Montgomery bridge will be ready for the running of trains to-morrow if the workmen are able to keep at the job of repairs through to-day and a part of tomorrow. The Pennsylvania may be somewhat shaken up and rattled at times, but it never takes it long to recover lost ground. No men in this country have worked as hard this year as Messrs. Hippie and Westfall of this city, but they were at work again with a will when the flood came the other day, and to their efforts is due the resumption of travel on the regular routes. During the flood of last June the success of so soon repairing the Montgomery bridge was attributed to Vice President Frank Thompson, when the fact was that Superintendent Westfall deserved most of the credit.—Saturday Williamsport Republican.

SHORTY.

The Fair—Methodists.

The ladies of the Methodist church are making many pretty things for their fair which will be held all day on Saturday, November 30, in the store room next the post office in Bush Arcade. This is the first time in a long while that these ladies have held a fair and they should now be well patronized. This will be just the time and occasion to buy Xmas presents as that eventful day is now not far distant, and where can there be found prettier or more suitable articles than those that will be offered at this fair. It must not be forgotten, also, that in the evening the fair will be closed by a grand supper to commence at 5 o'clock and which will consist of all the choicest edibles and delicacies of the season.

Unionville Echoes.

The principal amusement for the boys in this vicinity is hunting for rabbits and pheasants, which are quite plentiful.

Miss Alice Smith has returned from Bellwood where she has been visiting for some time.

Mr. Frank Pratt departed from this place last week for Philadelphia where he will learn the art of shoe making.

Rev. Mr. Cross the new minister for the Baptist church, gives universal satisfaction. His Sunday afternoon sermons are listened to by large congregations.

Miss Medie Finch, of this place, departed on the early train Saturday morning for Sharon, where she will visit her sister, Mrs. Lincoln Miller.

The singing school which has been in progress for more than a week was postponed the latter part of last week on account of the inclement weather. So, as soon as the weather is more favorable, Prof. Weld, the popular teacher, will reopen and, after teaching the time agreed for, will close with a concert.

A Sudden Death.

Special to the Altoona Tribune.

HUNTINGDON, Pa., Nov. 24.—Mrs. Anna M. Massey died suddenly at her residence, corner of Sixth and Washington streets, yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock. She had been afflicted three weeks previous with bilious colic, the first illness of a serious nature she had had in twenty years, but recovered in a few days sufficiently to be able to move about the house, and her friends and herself thought she was out of danger. On Saturday morning she engaged in household work, ate her dinner and about 5 o'clock in the afternoon was sitting in the parlor when her sister Emma heard her moan and came to her. Mrs. Massey did not complain of any pain and asked for a drink of water, which her sister brought. Before, however, she could raise the water to her lips she let the glass drop, and fell back in her chair lifeless. Her death was due to heart failure.

A Thousand Cars in Twenty-four Hours

On Saturday evening we were informed that owing to the late high water and destruction of the P. & E. division on the Pennsylvania railroad there were a thousand cars of freight lying at Lock Haven and other points on the western end of said division that would have to be transferred over the Bald Eagle road between Saturday night and Monday morning and that all the reserve engines and crews available were to be called into requisition. We have not been informed if such was the case, but there certainly was considerable whistling and rumbling of trains along the Bald Eagle all day Sunday. All last week the Bellefonte local made regular trips every night.

—Johnstown Tribune of Saturday Rev. A. H. Jolly, of Alexandria, Huntingdon county, was in the City for the purpose of examining the remains supposed to be those of Miss Mattie McDivitt. He reviewed the remains and felt sure of the identity, and then got Dr. Hager to examine the teeth, and he identified three of them as ones he was working on at the time of the flood. Mr. Jolly took the remains to Miss McDivitt's late home, Alexandria, her mother and sister living there

Shooting Match.

To all persons who would like to participate in a shooting match on Thanksgiving Day, Mr. Henry Barthurst of No. 22 Smith St., will hold one at the place above mentioned. Pigs and hogs from 60 to 300 pounds in weight, chickens, ducks, turkeys and geese will be put up.

—Remember the Methodist fair and supper on Saturday evening of this week. It will de a grand affair and should be well patronized.

Take Hood's Sarsaparilla 100 Doses One Dollar

The Chief Reason for the great success of Hood's Sarsaparilla is found in the article itself. It is merit that wins, and the fact that Hood's Sarsaparilla actually accomplishes what is claimed for it, is what has given to this medicine a popularity and sale greater than that of any other sarsaparilla or blood purifier before the public.

Merit Wins

Hood's Sarsaparilla cures Scrofula, Salt Rheum and all Humors, Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, Biliousness, overcomes That Tired Feeling, creates an Appetite, strengthens the Nerves, builds up the Whole System.

Hood's Sarsaparilla is sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared by C. I. Hood & Co., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

The above score shows every member of Company B as qualified in rifle practice and in standing only surpassed by one other company and that Company I, of Bedford. Capt. W. F. Reber, of this place is deserving of high praise for the good condition of the marksmanship of the Regiment as he worked very hard to bring about the present degree of proficiency.

In the Court House Tuesday Night.

The series of Star Course entertainments was begun on Tuesday evening with the appearance in the Court House of the Irish National Concert Company of Dublin. The W C T U can be highly commended for the chrracter and high standard of the selections made by them for their series of entertainments, as never before has their appeared in this town anything in the concert line that was as fine as the renditions by the Concert Company on Tuesday night. Each and every individual composing the company is a star, and we are sorry that space will not admit of our giving a full and complete report of the concert in detail, but we must desist.

The soprano soloist, Miss Hanlon, is one of superb vocalization and range of voice, excelling in selections of difficult rendering. One of the conspicuous features of her singing is her ability to quickly moderate her voice from clear, ringing tones to soft and echo-like waves of richest music. She was a great favorite.

Miss Hall-Gallagher is an excellently trained and naturally gifted contralto singer, whose solos were, if possible exceeded by her interpretation of parts in duets or quartettes, making her a valuable member of the company.

Madame Grey, presumably, has no superior as a harpist, and her favors were enthusiastically received. Ballads of sweet melody were executed with tenderness and expression, and rollicking airs were picked off, the strings to the lively jingle of the piano in an inspiriting manner.

As a tenor singer, Mr. Foxon need have no fear of losing his laurels, for he can sing with any in a contest of merit. His voice is one of mellowness and rare fineness, being especially full and strong on the upper register.

Mr. Cunliffe has one of the best barytone voices, which is given its full capability of his remarkable expression and enthusiasm.

Solos, duets, and quartettes were rendered. The members of the company made an especially good stage aapearance, and we have said these good words of them because they richly deserved them.

THE VILLAGE BLACKSMITH.

Under a spreading chestnut tree
The village blacksmith stands,
And in a brimming basin he
Would wash his brawny hands;
But something else than water clean
His sooty palm demands.

Week in, week out, from morn till night,
He might have rubbed, I trow,
Had I not given him a cake
Of IVORY SOAP, when, lo!
Full soon those honest hands of his
Were spotless as the snow.

And when the soap escaped his grasp,
With wonder he did note
That on the water's surface dark
The cleansing bar did float,
As swims upon a turbid lake
A pearl white fairy boat.

"Thanks, thanks," said he, "my worthy friend,
For this which thou hast brought;
No village blacksmith should forget
The facts this Ivory Soap has taught
For hands like mine it is the best
That can be found or bought."

A WORD OF WARNING.

There are many white soaps, each represented to be "just as good as the 'Ivory';" they ARE NOT, but like all counterfeits, lack the peculiar and remarkable qualities of the genuine. Ask for "Ivory" Soap and insist upon getting it.

IN THE HALLS OF JUSTICE.

Innumerable Bills, Petitions, Etc., Presented and Granted—A few Petty Cases Tried—The Murder Trial Next.

It was almost noon on Monday when the Court got settled down to business but when the wheel of justice commenced to revolve it went with great rapidity.

A great many petitions and applications were presented to the court and all were readily granted. Everything was done with a rush and hurry and no time was wasted. The first case tried was that of David Rhule for illegal selling of whiskey. No evidence found against plaintiff and nol. pros. entered.

The grand jury ignored the bill against Annie Kriner, the girl who was arrested on the charge of infanticide.

The Commonwealth vs. Snavely case of trespass was called and took up some time in listening to the evidence, but was disposed of by the Court who said it was a very small case to bring into court. Snavely was fined $5 and costs of prosecution.

The Exposition is closed until October next. We saw it; it was great, being in its infancy, but we saw enough to convince ourselves of the fact that enterprise, such as displayed there, should not be passed by without some comment. But we still wonder why it was that only one whole-sale liquor house was so boldly represented. You could see its pyramid of bottles from any part of the great building. It was the prettiest display there. Max Klein has proved to the public that he wants to be seen. His "Silver Age" rye whiskey has now such a well earned reputation that he is proud of it and he wants every-body to see it. His goods are pure and reliable You can have his Silver Age at $1.50 per full quarts. His Guckenheimer, Finch, Overholt or Gibson at $1.00 per quart, or 6 quarts for $5.00. LONG MAY IT WAVE!

The First Flag Floated Over a Centre County School House Put Up at Milesburg.

MILESBURG, PA., Nov. 21, 1889.

"The Star Spangled banner, oh long may it wave, O'er the land of the free, and the home of the brave."

This day will long be remembered in the history of Milesburg. From the top of the borough school house now floats the emblems of our country; the ensignia of home and of freedom; the representation of these solid forty-two states composing our grand and glorious union; and while the passer by can gaze with admiration upon the beloved colors as they float proudly to the brezee, the citizens of Milesburg can feel a just pride in the knowledge that over their school house floats the first flag to be hoisted in Centre county, and one and all are truly grateful to the Milesburg Council, No. 230, United American Mechanics, to whom is due the credit of the flag floating where it now does.

This order conceived the idea, nurtured the plausibility and arranged for the successful maturing of their noble conception, but the elements were against them. The occasion to-day had been planned for one of suitable ceremony and patriotic speeches, but owing to the inclement weather and the uncertain railroad facilities, the speakers engaged could not be present and part of the ceremonies had to be omitted.

Nevertheless, in spite of rain and mud and the disagreeable condition of the weather in general, Milesburg's patriotic citizens turned out en masse and, with very fitting and appropriate ceremony hoisted the flag in which there are two more stars than in any other flag; the two additional stars being for the two new states just admitted. The purpose of the flag on the school house is to serve as a constant reminder to the young, and to instill into the rising generation a love for their country, and to teach them that principle of self-protection that so characterized our forefathers as to cause them to suffer, bleed and die that this country might be free.

It is the purpose of the Order of United American Mechanics to place a flag on every public school house in Centre county and may the day be not far distant when that world-honored and home loved emblem may be unfurled to the breeze from the housetop of every public building.

Three Interesting Items.

The man around town has been so often asked when it would stop raining that he has been induced to consult the authorities on the subject, and as a consequence is enabled to predict that it will stop when the supply of water gives out.

Peeping through the keyhole of his neighbor's front door, Edward Bergle, of Johnstown, saw his wife sitting on a man's knee. When the husband knocked and made his presence known, the stranger beat him and threw him into the street, and then had him arrested.

An Illinois stranger at a Toledo hotel, unfamiliar with the electric light, tried to blow it out. No use; next he tied knots in the string, by which it was suspended, hoping to choke off the light. That failed, and then he wound a towel around the bulb and went to bed. After he was asleep the towel ignited and set the room on fire. The house was saved from a conflagration by the timely discovery by the night watchman.

Reynolds—Lambert.

Mr. Morgan Reynolds and Miss Ellie Lambert were married at 7.30 o'clock on Thursday evening at the grooms' residence on Bishop street, Rev. William Laurie, D. D., officiating. There was an additional romantic and attractive charm attached to the circumstances surrounding the union of this happy couple in the fact that the groom had very fully followed the old adage to "secure the cage then get the bird." Mr. Reynolds had his house arranged, handsomely furnished and comfortably fitted throughout, and there on Thursday evening, in the presence of a few intimate friends and invited guests is where the marriage ceremony took place that gave to him his choice for a future helpmate. Both parties are well known in Bellefonte and greatly esteemed and respected.

The Presbyterian Fair!

Very extensive preparations are now in progress by the ladies of the Presbyterian church, for the fair to be held on Dec. 5th. Miss Emily Harris is chairman of the committee, which fact alone will ensure the fair a success, as Miss Emily is a diligent worker and anything she undertakes is bound to go through. All interested are requested to make liberal donations, and to invite their friends to, also. Beautiful articles are already nearing completion which comprise things both useful and ornamental. Cake, ice cream and coffee will be served during the evening. All articles intended for the fair are to be sent to Miss Emily Harris, Linn street.

—In response to the appeal of the Board of Education of Cambria county for aid in re-establishing the schools destroyed by the Johnstown flood, the Patriotic Order Sons of America in the State has raised $1,009,21, of which the Executive Committee has sent out $559,-21 to D. J. Jones, Secretary of the Johnstown School District, and $450 to J. W. Leech Superintendent of Public Schools of Cambria county. It is stated that, beside the $3,200 contributed principally by the above-named Order and the Junior Order United American Mechanics the contributions have been small, and that at least $10,000 more will be needed.

A Season of Entertainment.

The Star Lecture course opened on Tuesday evening, the 26th instant, with a concert by the Irish National Concert Company, of Dublin. They are all first-class artists and are spoken of in the highest terms by the press at home and abroad. The Philadelphia Press says "They were recalled again and again," and it also speaks highly of their entertainment.

The lecture course is finer this season than ever. November 26, the Irish National Concert Company; December 15, Leland T. Powers, Copperfield Impersonations.

January 3rd, Emerson's Boston Stars, accompanied by Jno. Thomas, the celebrated humorist, Rudolph King, the brilliant pianist, Medora Henson Emerson, a Prima Donna who has the endorsement of the best audiences in London, New York and Boston, and Walter Emerson, the greatest living cornetist.

February 7th, Russell H. Conwell, who needs no commendation to a Bellefonte audience.

March 7th, John De Witt Miller, who is pronounced as good as Conwell, and gives a humorous lecture on "The uses of Ugliness."

April 11th, closes the series with a concert by the Howard Quartette, accompanied by Mrs. Laura Dainty, elocutionist and Miss Gertrude Lufkin, a fine cornetist. Season tickets only $2.25, can be had at the Drug stores, Boal's Book Store and Bunnel & Aiken's Music store. Single admission 50 cts. Student's tickets have been issued at $1.25, and special trains will be run over the Buffalo Run Road from the College to any of the course desired, thanks being due to the Superintendent of the road. To persons in the country who desire to attend the course—these same rates are offered $1.25 for the full course, but no reduction in single admission tickets. Purchasers of these reduced tickets please have them marked to avoid trouble to the committee in settling their account.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally acting directly upon the blood and mucos surfaces of the system. Price, 75c. per bottle. Sold by all druggists.

The Johnstown Orphans.

Within the next ten days it is expected that the three hundred disputed Johnstown claims will be adjusted, and then the work of the commission will end. Francis B Reeves has just returned to Philadelphia from the Conemaugh Valley, where he met the Pittsburg members of the commission. When its work is completed, Mr. Reeves says the commission will have disbursed $1,500,-000 in an effort to resuscitate the people of the stricken valley, and will still have $90,000 on hand. This money is to be deposited with some Philadelphia trust company, yet to be selected, as an annuity fund. It will enable every child who was made an orphan by the flood to receive an annuity of $50 a year until it reaches the age of sixteen years, and this will probably be the most far reaching in its results of any of the work of the commission.

Catarrh Can't be Cured

with LOCAL APPLICATION, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease. Catarrh is a blood or constitutional disease, and in order to cure it you have to take internal remedies. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, and acts directly on the blood and mucus surface. Hall's Catarrh Cure is no quack medicine. It was prescribed by one of the best physicians in this country for years, and is a regular prescription. It is composed of the best tonics known, combined with the best blood purifiers, acting directly on the mucus surface. The perfect combination of the two ingredients is what produces such wonderful results in curing catarrh. Send for testimonials free. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Prop's, Toledo, O.

A NOTABLE WEDDING.

A Fashionable Event Occurs in the Pleasant Town of Beech Creek.

BEECH CREEK, Pa., Nov. 19, 1889.

One of the most fashionable weddings that has occurred here for a long time took place to-day, at the bride's parents, Mr. J C DeLong's, where his only daughter, Miss Nora DeLong, was married to Mr. Charles Philips, of Alexandria. Rev. S W Pomeroy, pastor of the Presbyterian Church, officiated. At precisely one o'clock the bridal party appeared to the music of Mendelssohn's wedding march, which was finely rendered by Miss Annie Dunkle. The bridesmaids were Miss Laura Hess and Miss Bess Pomeroy. The ushers were Mr. Edwin Leyden and Mr. William Brown. The bride looked charming in a gown of rich white faille francaise with a handsome brocaded front, and a tulle veil, which enveloped her figure, her veil being held with white rosebuds, she also carried a beautiful bouquet of bridal roses. The groom, in his full dress suit of conventional black, looked handsome. The first bridesmaid, Miss Laura Hess, looked very beautiful in a handsome suit of cream French stripe with a front of plush and faille. Miss Bess Pomeroy was elegantly attired in a delicate shade of blue, tastefully draped with silk tulle. The bridesmaids carried elaborate bouquettes of La France roses with smilax. The ushers who were not less handsome than the groom were in full dress. A reception followed the ceremony, at which about seventy-five were present, those from a distance being from Tyrone, Alexandria, Phillipsburg, Bellefonte, Lock Haven, Shamokin and other places. The refreshments, which were very nicely served, consisted of all the delicacies of the season. The presents were numerous, handsome and useful. Mr. and Mrs. Philips departed on the afternoon train for a wedding tour to the Eastern cities amid showers of rice and hearty congratulations.

The Beech Creek band honored the happy couple and numerous guests with a delightful serenade. The music rendered being of the highest order.—Lock Haven Express.

The Chamber of Torture.

Is the apartment to which the unhappy sufferer from inflammatory rheumatism is confined. If, ere the crisis of pain is reached, that fine preventive, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, is used by persons of a rheumatic tendency, much unnecessary suffering is avoided. Nervines, anodynes and sedatives, while having none but a specific effect, are yet very desirable at times. Yet can they produce no lasting effect upon rheumatism, because they have no power to eliminate from the blood the rheumatic virus. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters does this, and checks at the outset a disease which, if allowed to gain headway, it is next to impossible to dislodge or to do more than relieve. Rheumatism, it should be remembered, is a disease with a fatal tendency from its proneness to attack the heart. A resort to the Bitters should therefore, be prompt. Dyspepsia, kidney complaint, and malaria are relieved by it.

Hopkins' Dream.

Mr. J. C. Eckley, of Olivia, Blair county, was in Bellefonte on Friday, and while here visited the prisoners in the Bellefonte jail. Mr. Eckley was very much impressed with the murderer Hopkins, and thinks that a Centre county jury can not be found to convict him of murder in the first degree; that they will find him insane. He was also somewhat impressed with a dream that Hopkins told him he had a few nights ago, in which he (Hopkins) dreamed that he upset a coal oil lamp and set fire to himself, and was very badly burned before assistance could arrive.

Something in a Name.

James Smith suffered some trouble from his surname. Sydney Smith is said to have named his sons Douglas and Wyndham, not that he had any connection with these noble families, but to distinguish them from the other Smiths. James Smith, when a solictor, says a writter in Temple Bar, was very much troubled by another James Smith, who came to live in the same house. Deeds and confidential secrets went to the wrong Smith. James Smith determined to put an end to the dilemma, and told the new arrival he must leave "Why should I leave?" said the intruder. "Because," said James Smith, "you are James the second, and must abdicate." There is something in a name. The Duke of Newcastle, of borough mongering celebrity, was once asked for a day's fishing by a newly arrived clergyman. The reply was: "The Duke of Newcastle cannot comply with Mr. Nose's request. P. S.—Finding Mr. Nose's name is Rose, he is pleased to grant the request."

Church Fair and Supper.

The ladies of the Methodist church will hold a fair all day on Saturday, November 30, in the vacant store room in Bush Arcade, next door to post office, and in the evening commencing at 5 o'clock will give one of the best suppers that has been served in Bellefonte for a long time. At the fair will be had all the beautiful and useful things, just suitable for Christmas presents, that it is possible for feminine fancy to pattern or artistic fingers to fashion. For the supper there will be all the good edibles and delicious delicacies that hungry humanity could wish or fastidious appetite desire. Remember the place, day and date.

—D. Garman & Son are displaying a large and very elegant line of goods, comprising all the latest novelties of the season. All the ladies like to deal with such an enterprising young merchant as Ed, and his skill in displaying his goods in the most tasty and attractive manner is quite wonderful, and his store is always a model of neatness and beauty.

—The Banner, a very neat little paper, published in the interest of the Baptist church, Rev. C. B. Cross, of this place, editor, is on our table. It is a well edited little paper, showing considerable thought and study on the part of the editor, and it will no doubt work great good in the field which it is designed to fill.

—Graduate (to critic, who has been looking over his essay). 'What do you think of it?' Critic 'Well, the first time I read it I was favorably impressed; the second time less so, and after the third perusal I put it down as bosh.' Graduate: 'That's all right then. I've only got to read it once, you know.'

Please Pay Promptly.

—It will cost $100,000,000 to put our seacoast, in a state of defence against foreign foe, while it won't cost us ten cents to mind our own business and keep out of a row with the rest of the world.

—The remains of the late Joseph D. Thomas were taken to Greenwood cemetery, Long Island, for interment. The funeral cortege left Bellefonte on the 5.20 train Friday evening.

—A Dansville editor has written a song entitled 'I am Glad I Said Yes.' He is to be excused, for he didn't know at the time what a headache he would have the next morning.

—In the Woods.—Aggie (to Charlie) 'Oh, look at that lovely, dear little bird on the tree.' Charlie 'Yes; that's a robin.' Aggie: 'How sweet! Oh, Charlie, shoot it to put on my hat.'

—"Miss Smiley is going to travel under an assumed name." "You surprise me!" "Yes; she is going to be married next week and going on her wedding journey."

—Many of the residents of Millheim have not yet fully recovered from the disastrous effects of the June flood.

—The Pittsburg Times was the only paper west of the Allegheny mountains that on Wednesday gave a full and explicit account of the floods throughout New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio and Maryland, in addition to giving a full resume of all the news of the day. The Times is a live, wide-a-wake newspaper, and any other journal that gets a "beat" on it will have to get around pretty early.

A FLOOD SWEPT VALLEY.

How the West Branch Valley Fared During the Last Few Days.

From the Williamsport Gazette and Bulletin of Wednesday we learn that in that city the water overflowed all the lower streets and some places was two to three feet deep on the lower floors of the houses. All the cellars were filled to overflowing and it was a very vivid reminder of last June.

ALONG THE RIVER.

The scenes along the river during the day were lively, thousands of persons wending their way down to ascertain the condition of affairs. The big stream kept coming up at the rate of nine inches an hour, and at 10 o'clock last night was reported as being sixteen feet high. The employes of the Market street bridge put in a busy day securing the temporary structure. Several hundred tons of stone were hauled on the bridge and unloaded.

NEWS FROM LYCOMING.

Lycoming Creek was within six feet of being as high as on June 1 at the residence of Abram Good. The news from up the creek was a tale of wreck and ruin. The following Northern Central bridges were taken out during the day: Nos. 1, 2, 8 and 19. Many of the county bridges were also taken.

Trout Run was bank full and bridge gone. Bridge 18 partially gone. Carpenter Creek was as high as on June 1st. Temporary bridge at Fields gone. Bridge at Crescent now lying in bed of Creek. New iron bridge at Apkers just completed ten minutes before flood swept trestle work from under it.

TRAINS ABANDONED.

All trains on the Pennsylvania railroad were abandoned in the afternoon. The Montgomery bridge was rendered insecure, the structure being moved three feet. The Reading bridge at West Milton which was held down by loaded cars, went out during the afternoon, and no trains are running further than Dewart.

A house at Flack's Run, owned by Mr. Innes, was swept away, but no lives were lost.

THE MONTGOMERY BRIDGE.

Superintendent Westfall returned from Montgomery about ten o'clock last night. He stated that two spans of the temporary portion of the bridge had gone out, and that arrangements had been made with the Reading Company, whereby the passenger traffic would not be interrupted. Passengers will be transferred at Sunbury to the Reading road, the tracks of that road being used to Montgomery, and from there the company's own tracks would be used.

MARKET STREET BRIDGE

Market street bridge toppled over into the stream about half-past 11 o'clock.

NARROW ESCAPE

When the first span of the Market street bridge collapsed last night, Oscar Reipsame, foreman of the crew of bridge builders, was upon it. He went down among the heavy timbers and for a time was supposed to have been lost. In a few minutes, however, he succeeded in pulling himself upon a piece of timber and shouted lustily for assistance. He was rescued by a man with a boat, who, considering the darkness of the night and the height of the water, performed a heroic act. His name was not learned.

At 1.45 this morning the river was seventeen feet and four inches high, having risen four inches in an hour. One span of the Market street bridge was reported as being still intact.

ALL OVER THE STATE

From Watsontown, Newport, Harrisburg, Reading, Johnstown, in New York and Maryland, the western part of this State and Ohio come reports of very high water, though not so high nor yet so disastrous as the flood of last June, but everywhere there has been great loss and damage.

Huffman—Cleaver.

"Two souls with but a single thought,
Two hearts that beat as one"

Tis the old, old story; and yet, 'tis ever new. On Tuesday afternoon Mr. Edward Huffman and Miss Minnie Cleaver, both of this place, were united in marriage at the Methodist parsonage at Pleasant Gap. At the time above mentioned the happy couple drove from Bellefonte to Pleasant Gap where the ceremony was performed that made them man and wife, and from there continued their journey to Centre Hall where they spent the remainder of the day and had supper, returning late in the evening to this place.

The bride is a bright and accomplished young lady and, although she has not been a resident of Bellefonte much longer than a year, she has made many friends and was herself universally admired. The groom, Mr. Huffman, is an employe in J A Harper & Co's. store and has always been know as an industrious, steady young man.

—Rev. Jackson and Charles Keller and wife and some others, from Lock Haven, started to attend the funeral of Samuel Brickley in March Creek, Curtin township, this county, on Tuesday morning, but owing to the high water could get no farther than Howard. Rev. Jackson was to have conducted the funeral services. Mr. Brickley, who was one of Curtin township's most prominent citizens, died last Saturday.

Four Items from the Exchanges.

The man who can be found on the streets at an hour of the night is known to make use of an uncouth word, as a "rounder." He is always afloat when all respectable persons are indulging in sweet dreams. His principal object seems to be to see how late he can stay out at night and also to assassinate an unlimited amount of drinks, at the expense of another. The community is better rid of such individuals.

Thanksgiving Day! It will soon be here. Look around you and see if there is not some one whom you can bless with a little of the surplus entrusted to you for distribution. There are few of us, no matter how dark the skies may seem to be, who have not something for which to thank our Heavenly Father. Let us thank Him by helping some other wanderer to feel grateful and happy.

One of the latest fads among women is the "dress album," wherein samples of all the dresses worn by the owner are gummed or sewed. Chronical order is observed in the arrangement of these cuttings, and under each piece is inscribed the date on which the dress was first worn and any interesting reminiscences of the occasion.

One of the greatest mistakes a town can make is to fall into a lethargic state, growing indifferent and apathetic as to the public welfare. Continual watchfulness and never-ceasing endeavor are essential to the success of a town.

Unionville Items.

Rain, rain, cloudy, shine! Rain is the order of the weather, and now (the 19th) the Bald Eagle creek is full and much damage may be done.

A daughter of Mr. George P. Hall and a daughter of Mr. A. B. Shipley are quite ill with typhoid fever.

The Frederick Harpster farm was sold at Orphan's Court sale lately and John Harpster bought it for $625.

Mr. Miller, who was recently sawing lumber on Buffalo Run, has moved his mill near this place and will saw a lot of timber on lands of William P. Fisher and others.

It is considered that the morning is the best time to take a cold water bath, but a young man of this place reversed the time by accidentally slipping into the mill race on Monday evening.

Mr. B. Rich has just returned from a business trip to West Virginia.

Frank, a son of Mr. Riley Pratt, has secured a position in a shoe factory in Harrisburg, Pa.

A. N. Russell and Mrs. T E Griest and daughter are visiting Rev. Henche, of Philipsburg.

Mr T E Griest has gone East for recreation and to recruit his health. His clerks, Messrs J E Barton and Andrew Thompson, are attending to his store business.

Ed Griest, A J Griest's oldest son and chief clerk, has gone with Samuel Brugger on an engineering trip, after his return from which he will take a course at business college.

Boys, Read.

Tobacco and intoxicating drinks are beyond doubt the great agencies at work in our midst blighting the fair promise of youth, and impairing, often utterly destroying the usefulness of young manhood that should be "glorious in its strength." Not only in this country, but also in Europe, is this curse recognized as such. A London medical journal observing that juvenile smoking is getting to be more and more common, notes that the result is an impairment of the eyesight, a thinning of the hair, and other symptoms of excessive draughts on optic nerve centres.

Letter List.

List of unclaimed letters remaining in the post office at Bellefonte, Pa., Nov. 18, 1889:

Persons inquiring for letters named in the above list will please say advertised.

JAS. H DOBBINS, P. M.

—The Modocs, a party of hunters from Boalsburg and vicinity, have for fifteen years taken a week or more of a hunt for deer in the Seven Mountains, and always returned with several deer, but this year they broke camp and went home without anything, breaking their record. In fifteen years they have killed eighty-four deer and one bear. One of the Modocs who was not along with them, named Martz, on their hunt, last week shot a deer at home near Boalsburg.—Centre Reporter.

—Whoever sends dispatches away from Bellefonte should adhere to the facts at all times. For instance: A dispatch went the rounds of the press as coming from Bellefonte and saying in regard to the recent high water that "Bald Eagle was flooded from mountain to mountain and Penns Valley was entirely overflowed." Nothing could have been further from a correct statement than the above. Stick to facts at all times.

"She could swing a six-pound dumb-bell;
She could fence and she could box;
She could row upon the river,
She could clamber 'mong the rocks;
She could do some heavy bowling,
And play tennis all day long;
But she couldn' help her mother,
'Cause she wasn't very strong.

IN MEMORY OF JOSEPH D. THOMAS.

A Brave Soldier and a Useful Citizen Gone to Join the Ranks in the Vast Beyond.

The announcement in the DAILY NEWS on Thursday that Joseph D. Thomas had died at the residence of his parents on Allegheny street early that morning caused universal surprise and much sorrow, as very few people in Bellefonte knew that he was so near death's door. It is just about three weeks since Mr. and Mrs. Joseph D. Thomas arrived in Bellefonte from their home in Middletown, N. J., and became the guests of the gentleman's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob V. Thomas, on Allegheny street. At that time the thought of death was very far distant. Mr. Thomas was suffering from the effects of a very severe attack of typhoid fever with which he was afflicted about a year ago and from which he never fully recovered. It was hoped that the change to the pure mountain air of Bellefonte would be beneficial and that, with proper care his life might be prolonged, but it availed nothing and on Thursday morning at 1 o'clock the soldier, who had fought many hard contested battles, surrendered to that old warrior, death.

Joseph D. Thomas was the oldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob V. Thomas, and was born at Howard in the year 1841. His father at that time was the proprietor of the Howard Iron Works. There his early life was spent until grown to youth when the family moved to Bellefonte. When Joseph Thomas was but twenty years old the war broke out and, loyal to the cause, he joined in the great struggle to save the Union. He entered the service as a member of Anderson's Cavalry and in their travels he was captured by General Morgan, the noted and far famed guerilla and rebel vendetta.

Through the intercession of Col. W P Elliot, formerly of Bellefonte and a brother-in-law of John P and H P Harris, in this place, and who was then a chief on Morgan's staff, Mr. Thomas was released. He afterwards was transferred and promoted to Lieutenant in Capt. John Boal's Company, in which capacity he accompanied General Sherman on his famous "March to the Sea." Mr. Thomas served all through the war and his record was one of the bravest of the brave.

After the war was ended Mr. Thomas returned to his home here and engaged in mining operation. Later he was one of the firm of Jacob V Thomas & Co., who operated the Bellefonte glass works. About eighteen years ago he went to Middletown, New Jersey, and engaged in the mercantile business and since that time he has made the latter place his home.

Three Items from Phillipsburg.

PHILIPSBURG, PA., November 20.—Mrs. Doane, the woman who was struck by an engine on the Tyrone and Clearfield railroad, near Mapleton junction, some two weeks ago, while walking along the track, died this morning from the effects of the injuries then received.

Just when the operators and miners of the Beech Creek region began to be hopeful of continued activity in shipments of coal, at least until the first of the year, the traffic is all at once knocked out by the high waters. Word from General Palmer received here to-day is that two important bridges have gone entirely, two others are in dangerous condition, and that shipment of coal will have to be suspended for two weeks and possibly longer.

In the Seely Hopkins murder case, subpœnas are to-day being served on persons supposed to have some knowledge which would be of benefit to the accused. On the side of the commonwealth, it is said a half hundred persons have been subpœnaed, among the number being seven out of the nine physicians of Philipsburg. It is also stated that some persons are leaving town to avoid the service of papers on them.

Bucklin's Arnica Salve.

The best salve in the world for cuts, bruises, sores, ulcers, salt rheum, fever sores, tetter, chapped hands, chilblains, corns, and all skin eruptions, and positively cures piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by W. C. Keplinger & Co.

—Evidently the Watchman thinks to impart some valuable information when it asserts the fact that "ye editor" is the Bellefonte correspondent of the Pittsburg Times. We are the correspondent of that paper and have been for several years and it was probably owing to that fact that the compliment, which was a bona fide one, was paid us. We do not pretend to merit the compliment, however, as we could not be "the brainiest editor in Pennsylvania" so long as the Watchman editor is above ground, and yet your "little neighbor" is not quite so small in some things as you appear to be.

Card of Explanation.

Although every one of our citizens is perfectly well informed as to the facilities for travel at the present time over any of the railroads running into Bellefonte, they may yet think it might have been possible for Dr. McGlynn's manager, Mr. A. S. Houghton, to get him here in time for the lecture in the court house last evening, but the elements were against it. The following dispatch will explain:

WILLIAMSPORT, PA., NOV. 20, 1889.
R. C. Irvin:
Can't get there. Must postpone till January. A. S. HOUGHTON.

Wednesday morning I was informed by the railroad authorities here that there would certainly be connection between Lewisburg and this place, so that all passengers coming from that point could reach here, but unfortunately it turned out different.

Thanking the people for the liberal patronage kindly promised, at the same time apologizing for the great disappointment, I am with respect.

R. C. IRVIN.

The Proprietor of Kemp's Balsam gives Thousands of Bottles away yearly? This mode of advertising would prove ruinous if the Balsam was not a perfect cure of Coughs and all Throat and Lung troubles. You will see the excellent effect after taking the first dose. Don't hesitate! Procure a bottle to-day to keep in your home or room for immediate or future use. Trial bottle free at all druggists. Large size 50c and $1.00.

—The Pennsylvania railroad has recently issued an order to the effect that hereafter no employee of that company will be allowed to mail a letter on the train. This is done to discourage a growing custom and one that is not allowable by the post office authorities. So many people take mail matter to the depot and entrust it to any employee who will be kind enough to handle it, the said person not having time to await the arrival of the train. Hence it is thought that by not allowing employees to be mail carriers the custom may be abolished.

Overgrown Calves.

The Jersey Shore Herald states that two young men by the names of Stabley and Winchester, drove through Nippenose Valley on Saturday last, and showed themselves to a good advantage by driving unmercifully and drawing a revolver on passing strangers. They represented themselves as cow boys, but it was afterwards learned that they were nothing but overgrown calves. They will receive a hearty official welcome if they visit the valley again.

—Late at the Observatory.—'Please tell me where I am to go. I was invited to see the transit of Venus.' 'I am extremely sorry, madam, but you are too late. The transit was over fifteen minutes ago.' 'Oh, that's no matter. The superintendent is a friend of mine and I am sure he will have it done again for me.'

"Her grace of motion, and of look, the smooth
The swimming majesty of step and tread,
The Symmetry of form and feature, set
The soul afloat, even like delicious airs
Of flute and harp."

For her matchless look of grace and motion, this regal beauty was indebted to perfect health, restored by the use of that unequaled, invigorating tonic and nervine, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, which set in healthy action every function and gave purity and richness to the blood.

"Favorite Prescription" is a positive cure for the most complicated and obstinate cases of leucorrhea, excessive flowing, painful menstruation, unnatural suppressions, prolapsus, or falling of the womb, weak back, "female weakness," anteversion, retroversion, bearing-down sensations, chronic congestion, inflammation and ulceration of the womb. is one that promotes digestion, improves the appetite, cleanses the liver, purifies the blood, and stimulates brain and nerves without injurious reaction, and one that may be taken alike by adult or infant. Profane compounds, made of vile rum or bad whiskey, sweetened and flavored, under the titles of bitters, tonics, &c, produce effects far worse than the disease for which they are taken.

Vinegar Bitters is a pure tonic, a nervine without being narcotic, a purifier without poison, a liver tonic without purging, and above all, a life-giving stimulant without alcohol. The only medicine with such powers in the world.

A GENUINE TEMPERANCE BEVERAGE, far surpassing alcohol in any shape as a tonic, it might be called since it stimulates, invigorates and regulates digestion, nutrition, secretion, excretion, respiration, and all the functions whereby life is maintained—we literally take in vitality in spoonsful.

It is too much to assert that the equal of Vinegar Bitters does not exist, and no counterpart or compound with similar virtues has ever been known.

CALIFORNIA,

if remarkable for nothing else, would be immortalized by the production of the medicinal fruits, roots and herbs of which this Bitters is composed. Many of them used by the Indians and the medical profession in the treatment of chills and fevers, rheumatism, catarrh, consumption, neuralgia, headaches, liver complaint, kidney disease, jaundice, gout, piles, boils, skin diseases, &c., &c., too numerous to mention, but easily understood when the action of the Bitters on the vital functions is remembered. The discovery was partly accidental but the present

PERFECT BITTERS IS THE RESULT OF SCIENCE.

Millions of sufferers have gratefully and gladly endorsed, during the past quarter of a century the wonderful success of this

PHENOMENAL TONIC OF THE WORLD.

In order to meet every probable demand, two formulas of the same ingredients are now put up.

THE OLD STYLE IS STRONGER, SLIGHTLY BITTER, AND MORE CATHARTIC.

THE NEW STYLE, PLEASANT TO THE TASTE, AND EXPRESSLY ADAPTED TO DELICATE WOMEN AND CHILDREN.

REMEMBER,

There is no disease of low vitality, debility of functions, or nervous prostration for which

VINEGAR BITTERS IS NOT CURATIVE,

and its singular power over the lower organisms renders it the implacable foe of

THE DEADLY MICROBE AND OMNIPRESENT BACTERIA

in malarial diseases, cholera, consumption, internal diseases, &c., and so great is its power as a germicide that it is an

UNEQUALLED VERMIFUGE.

A book could be written of its virtues, and another of testimonials, but it is only necessary to remember its general action upon the liver, blood, brain and nerves, to realize its use in a majority of the ills that flesh is heir to, and that no family should ever be without a bottle of

NOTES.

The prisoner who is now being tried for his life for committing a double murder is rather a good looking young man, well dressed and about 25 years of age. He bears up well under the trying ordeal he is called upon, by his God and country, to go through. He has an able counsellor in the person of W F Reeder, Esq., who will do all in his power to save his life.

The Commonwealth is ably represented by District Attorney, J Calvin Meyers assisted by Col. Jack Spangler.

Chief Westbrook, of Lock Haven, now in the employ of the P R R Co. took in the trial on Tuesday.

On Tuesday the court room was densely crowded but perfect order prevailed.

Tuesday Afternoon Session.

Court opened at 2 o'clock with all the Judges on the bench, the Presiding judge being a little behind time.

The jury took their seats in the box at 5 minutes of 2 o'clock. The Sheriff, with his prisoner, entered a few minutes before 2. Several ladies made their appearance in the court room for the first time during the session.

John A Long was called up and sentence deferred until to-morrow morning.

The jury was separately sworn to try the case for which they had been empanelled which was the case of Commonwealth against W S Hopkins, indictment—murder in the first degree.

The Court said to the jury that they were now to pass upon one of the worst cases they were ever called upon to try. That they should regard all the law pertaining to the case. You must reserve your judgment and truly try this case, and then gave other instructions relating to this case. Officers were instructed to remove from the room all boys under 16 years of age and pupils of the schools.

The District Attorney opened the case to the jury. He told the jury that they had sworn that they had no bias against the prisoner and that they must try the prisoner according to the evidence, and further said that the evidence that he intended to present them was of such a character that he felt they would render a verdict of guilty. He then called the jury's attention to the case as laid down by Judge Ludlow, in what constituted murder in the first degree. His address was serious, able, eloquent and especially applicable to the case on trial.

W R Williams was called as the first witness. Live in Philipsburg; know the property where Mrs. Wigamen resided. I made measurements and surroundings of the house; that is the draft you have in your hands; the witness then explained draft to court and jury, stating it was 178 feet from house to Alport's livery; also explaining rooms in house in which Esty Wigamen lived and in which she was killed.

Cross examine. Am a draughtsman to a certain extent. Have drawn drafts for houses, some of the draft is drawn to a scale and some of it is not; the house is on 2nd street adjoining house of Mr. Pierce.

E J Myers sworn. Live in Philipsburg; am familiar with the property drawn by the draft presented. Witness described the rooms in the house and cellar. There is a window in the cellar under the back porch; there was a door leading from the cellar to the kitchen. Witness then explained map to jury. There is a room going from a kitchen to a stairway so as to go up stairs. Esther Wigamen owned this house and lot for more than a year. Esther Wigamen was my sister; her husband was dead; she had two children, one of which was Maggie Hopkins, wife of prisoner; saw Esther Wigamen alive on Saturday evening, the 21st of September. The murder occurred at 10 o'clock on Sunday morning of Sept 22nd. Didn't see her until after she was killed. I heard shots and ran to see what was the matter I passed the Wigamen house and stopped at Alport's stable; when I heard the shots I was standing on my back porch, there were two of them. From livery stable went to house and found Maggie Hopkins lying on floor in kitchen with a bullet hole in her ear; did not go up stairs then. I heard prisoner say he had shot his wife and mother-in-law, that is what took me to the house.

Cross-examine. Saw my sister dead on Sunday afternoon; from what Hopkins told me I know they were shot on Sunday; saw Maggie Hopkins alive on Sunday morning; Mrs. Wigamen could not have been killed on Saturday night. He was sitting in Alports stable when prisoner told me he had shot his wife and mother-in-law; he was bleeding from wounds in his head; he was partly dressed but had no hat on. It was about church time when I heard the shots. This witness underwent a rigid cross-examination in chief.

Direct—Saw Maggie Hopkins coming up to the house; heard pistol shots ten minutes afterwards; heard no pistol shots at the house.

Robert Wigamen sworn. Live in Philipsburg. Esther Wigamen was my mother, my sister married W S Hopkins, the prisoner; lived with my mother. Family consisted of mother, W S Hopkins, my sister Maggie and self. Moved into the house a year ago last September Was at home on Saturday night, Sept. 2. 1889. Charlie Johnson was with me that night. Charlie Johnson slept with me in sister's room. Saw mother that morning, she got breakfast. Went to Clearfield after breakfast, saw sister that morning. Left house at 8 o'clock that Sunday morning. When I came home they told me my mother was dead. Didn't see her body until the next Tuesday.

Cross-examine. Slept Sunday and Monday night at Myers; my friend John. son did not go to Clearfield with me. Wakened mother on Sunday morning and talked to her and sister Maggie, Re-direct. Mother went into cellar to get bread and butter for breakfast.

Charles Johnson sworn. Live in Harrisburg. Have been acquainted with the Wigamen family since I was a boy, was visiting Mrs. Wigamen's. I stayed at Wigamen's house on Saturday evening and met Maggie, Esther and Robert that night. Was at Pierce's saloon in company with Maggie that night we went from there to Dorsey Myers' when we all went down to Wigamen's, went to bed about 11 o'clock, Robert slept with me that night. Got up about 8 o'clock Sunday morning and took breakfast with Maggie and Esther about 10 a. m. Maggie and I went to Dorsey's house, when I went to Mrs. Haines' house. Went back to Wigamen's house in about half and hour and found them both dead. This was about 10 a. m. Went back to Mrs. Haines' house, Maggie was shot in the head and lying on the floor.

Cross-examination. Saw Mrs. Wigamen lying on the floor shot in the head blood and brains oozing out of the wound which was in side of head; was in room about 5 minutes; it was room over dining room. Witness then described the room of house on draft to court and jury. Maggie Hopkins was lying on her side in kitchen with a bullet wound on side of her head; am not positive it was a bullet wound. Didn't see Hopkins that day.

Dr J D McGirk sworn. Live in Philipsburg, and am a physician. Remember 22nd of September, 1889. I was at lower end of 2nd. street. Mrs. Wigamen's house is on this street. When I got opposite the house—near livery stable Hopkins commenced firing shots and at third shot prisoner fell to the ground. Saw blood flowing from wound on his head. Didn't know the man when I first saw him; heard three shots at livery stable. The prisoner at the bar is the man I saw at livery stable.

Cross-examine. When I got opposite Wigamen's house saw prisoner run out; he had no hat and no shoes on; he went diagonally across street to livery stable. Soon as I saw what prisoner was doing I crossed 2nd street, to protect myself from being shot, I thought he was using left hand when trying to shoot himself. He fired three shots at himself at livery stable, when he fired the third shot he fell to the pavement. When prisoner came out of the house he looked as though he was in a hurry and frightened, he was running. Can't say Hopkins took revolver from hip pocket; when he shot he dodged his head.

John Ralkins sworn. Live in Philipsburg, am a plumber. My shop is across street from Alport's livery stable and diagonally from Wigamen property. Was in shop on Sunday morning at 8 o'clock; left it at nine. Saw prisoner when he came into Laurel street. When he run out he said "John, John: I ended their career," and I went on, didn't stop.

Cross examine. Saw Hopkins about 10 that morning about ten steps from Alport's stable, had left stable when I saw him. I turned and looked at him when he called me John twice, he was half way across the street. I went on to keep him from shooting me; he pointed pistol at himself, I heard but one shot. When I see a man in that shape I'll get away from him every time, was afraid of him on account of his looks. He was in his stocking feet, looked pale, nervous and excited, we were friends.

Dr. J H Pierce sworn. Live in Philipsburg. (The doctor couldn't speak above a whisper.) Was at my office door on Sunday morning at time of the crime, heard a shot fired. Saw a man holding a revolver up with his right hand near livery stable. I ran as hard as could toward him when he shot a second time; went to livery stable and found prisoner bleeding from a wound in the head, found four wounds on his person. One portion of the bullet passed below the membrane of the scalp, I stopped the bleeding. Went to Wigamen's and found Maggie lying on floor and Mrs. Wigamen up stairs lying on her right side with head under the bed. Made post-mortem examination and found three holes on Mrs. Wigamen, one bullet had passed in at left angle of lower jaw but it didn't produce death. Upon removing scalp found a bullet hole penetrating scull above left ear, ball had passed through the most important parts of brain striking spinal column producing instantaneous death. When first shot hit prisoner he shrank down because he didn't feel very good.

Cross-examine. Ball struck lower part of jaw and came out on top of head near where other ball struck her, this ball did not produce death but the one on top of her head did. (The Doctor's cross examination failed to bring out anything new from what he testified to in chief.) He had a peculiar look after having two balls in him.

Re-direct. The party firing the ball must have fired it from below up, when the other ball was fired Mrs. Wigamen must have been on her knees. Witness showed how it must have happened by placing District Attorney on his knees.

Dr. H W Buckingham sworn. Live in Philipsburg. Assisted Dr. Pierce to hold a post mortem examination on the body of Mrs. Wigamen, found three wounds on her person. He then described wounds about similar to Dr. Pierce.

Cross-examine. It took us one hour to hold the examination on Mrs. Wigamen. The ball passed down spinal column, probed it for two or three inches. Dr. Potter was present part of the time when holding inquisition. Can't see how ball could have produced the wound if parties were in any other position than the one described.

Mrs. Blanche Myers sworn. Live in Philipsburg, wife of Dorsey Myers. Saw Mrs. Wigamen on Sunday morning lying on the floor in her bed room with a wound in her head, she was dead. Saw her at 8 o'clock that morning getting milk and spoke to her.

Mrs Haines sworn. Live in Philipsburg, was no relation to murdered woman. Saw her on Sunday morning, she was dead. About 10 o'clock that morning Charles Johnson of Harrisburg, was visiting me and asked me where Wigamen's lived. Johnson came to my house and we went to Wigamen's house where I saw Maggie lying on the floor wounded. I went up stairs and found Mrs. Wigamen lying on the floor cold and dead; some dishes were in water.

Cross-examine. It was near ten o'clock when I went to Wigamen's house. Nothing new was brought out in cross examination. Maggie's hand was warm but Mrs. Wigamen's was cold.

Sheriff Cooke sworn. Went to Philipsburg after murder was committed and was present when a coroner's inquest was held on murdered people. This is the revolver, it is a Bull Dog: I got it off the table in public building where inquest was held. Mr. Rhule left it there; Mr. Meyers gave me the revolver and I have kept it ever since; there were six empty cartridges in the revolver—they are in it now.

J C Meyers sworn. Said he received revolver from Sheriff Cooke; it is in same shape as when I gave it to him; it is now in the same condition it was when Samuel Rhule handed it to me at the inquest.

Fred Lard sworn. The electric light having gone into a total eclipse the Court was obliged to adjourn until a quarter of 9 o'clock on Wednesday morning.

When the prisoner was being taken back to jail a large number of children and women were assembled back of the court house in order to get a sight of him. The prisoner has but very little use of his left leg which is still paralyzed, as well as his left side. He looks considerably broken down and has a very narrow head with a receding forehead.

—Excuse us, dear Democrat of Lock Haven, but our item relating to the amount of sickness and the number of deaths in Lock Haven was obtained from a well informed resident of that city, and if, as you say, it is wrong, was a misstatement of his and not an intentional one on our part. Candidly, we hope it is wrong.
